Lou Gehrig, 'Iron Horse' of Baseball, Dies

Former Star of Yankees Succumbs to Rare Disease.

By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 2.—Lou Gehrig, great first baseman of the New York Yankees for 14 years, died tonight after two years illness of a rare disease that everyone except he himself believed incurable.

The "Iron Horse" of baseball, who would have been 38 years old June 19, died at his home in the presence of his wife after a critical span of only three weeks. He did not lose consciousness until just before death at 9:10 p. m., (eastern standard time).

Was Underweight.
The disease which erased Gehrig from the lineup of the mighty Yankees on May 2, 1939, was diagnosed as "amyotrophic lateral sclerosis," a hardening of the spinal cord which caused muscles to shrivel.

He wasted away sharply in the final weeks and was reported 25 pounds underweight and barely able to speak shortly before he died.

He had served for a year and a half as a member of the New York city parole commission and visited his office regularly until about a month ago, when he decided to remain at home to conserve his energy.

In his playing days Gehrig was one of baseball's greatest stars, but was most famous for his great physical feat in playing 2,130 consecutive regularly scheduled American league games in 14 years.

Had Many Records.
He twice was chosen the most valuable player in the league and over a year ago was voted a place in baseball's Hall of Fame, joining a score of the game's immortals.

He participated in 34 world series games and piled up numerous batting records of various kinds.

Through all the years Gehrig was known for his clean habits and affable disposition and these factors made him one of baseball's best loved players.

They also helped him stand off the ravages of his disease after others had given up hope.

Gehrig refused to believe that his disease was incurable and as long as possible maintained a normal routine.

He had withdrawn voluntarily from the lineup in the spring of 1939 because he was in a slump. At that time no one realized he was ill. But after benching himself while the club was in Detroit, Gehrig went to the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., where the nature of his trouble was learned.

Margaret Mitchell To Christen U. S. S. Atlanta, New Warship

Author Accepts Invitation To Participate in August Ceremony.

Margaret Mitchell will christen the U. S. S. Atlanta when that powerful cruiser is launched in August at a shipbuilding plant at Kearny, N. J., to take its place among the mighty fighting ships of this nation's growing two-ocean Navy.

The Constitution proudly makes this announcement after having been delegated by Mayor Roy LeCraw to assist him in naming a "truly representative" sponsor for this new vessel. The Constitution suggested the name of Miss Mitchell (Mrs. John R. Marsh)—and the mayor, in his enthusiasm, forthwith ordered the entries closed. Now, the mayor joins The Constitution in deep appreciation of the Atlanta author's acceptance.

Word of Miss Mitchell's willingness to participate in the ceremonies was transmitted to Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox last night, in response to his request that the sponsor's name be turned over to naval authorities well in advance of the actual launching, which will take place August 9.

"This is truly a great honor and I am proud to accept," said Miss Mitchell. "It will be a great day for Atlanta when a ship bearing the name of our city sets out to do its part in the defense program. I am very fortunate in having this opportunity to be present at the launching ceremonies."

To Mayor LeCraw and The Constitution, Miss Mitchell's affirmative came as the perfect answer. In Atlanta, in Georgia and throughout the whole United States.

TO LAUNCH ATLANTA... AGAIN—Margaret Mitchell, distinguished author of "Gone With the Wind," the book that carried her fame and that of her native city to the corners of the world, will christen the cruiser, U. S. S. Atlanta, when it is launched at Kearney, N. J., August 9.

Skidding Motorists Down Four Poles as Atlanta's Drouth Ends 'Why Hitler Will Not Win'

Freakish Downpour Registers 1.36 Inches in City, But Outlying Sections of State Find Little Relief.

Rain fell on Atlanta yesterday, and motorists who, during the long drouth had forgotten how to drive on slippery streets, knocked down four power company poles.

Student Falls, Clammers Back To Land Plane

CAA Pilot Ignores Parachute in Order To Save Ship.

SAN MARCOS, Tex., June 2.—(AP)—Elliott Falls, advanced CAA flying student, says he fell from the cockpit of his training plane, caught a strut and managed to fight his way back into the ship and land safely.

Falls said that while he was making routine slow rolls yesterday his safety belt broke from its moorings. When the ship became inverted, he fell and his arm jammed in a strut.

Falls climbed from the ship at the CAA airport, his arms and shoulder bruised and his shirt torn to shreds. He said his parachute was in operating condition but he wanted to bring the ship down if possible.

4-Year Term, Other Changes Before Voters

Heavy Balloting Today Predicted, Weather Favorable.

By LUKE GREENE.
The fate of the four-year term and 69 other proposed constitutional amendments will be decided today in the last of Georgia's off-year June elections, which were abolished by the last legislature.

Favorable voting weather and the issue developed by the four-year term are expected to attract a large percentage of the 69,316 voters in Fulton and DeKalb counties as well as a sizable portion of the electorate in the rest of the state.

Cloudy Skies Predicted.
The weatherman predicts cloudy skies with the possibility of showers in the afternoon.

In a sense he and Governor Talbot have gotten together, for the chief executive forecasts the end of the drouth today, saying it will begin raining and continue possibly for two weeks.

Voters, however, will have ample time to get to the polls and mark their ballots before the predicted showers. All Fulton and DeKalb precincts with the exception of 11 in Fulton and nine in DeKalb will open at 7 o'clock this morning and remain open until 7 o'clock tonight.

The country precincts will open at 8 o'clock in the morning and close at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Hospital Provision.
Besides the four-year term, Fulton and DeKalb voters will be particularly interested in an amendment creating a hospital authority for the two counties, which would pave the way for the construction of a new $5,000,000 hospital to replace Grady. This is No. 21 on the ballot.

Talmadge supporters will go to the polls with the slogan of "1, 2 and 53" ringing in their ears. These are the three amendments providing for four-year terms for the Governor, attorney general, secretary of state, comptroller general, state treasurer and state superintendent of schools.

Justice Courts.
The only other amendment receiving the endorsement of the administration is No. 20, which would increase the jurisdiction of justices' courts from a $100 maximum amount involved to $200.

Other proposed amendments soliciting state-wide interest are No. 54, which provides for exempting from all taxation for 20 years all co-operative, non-profit membership corporations organized under the laws of this state for the purpose of engaging in rural electrification; No. 68, which provides for advertising and promoting the state's resources; and No. 69, which.

Chief Justice Hughes Will Retire on July 1

Attorney General Jackson Predicted To Fill Vacancy.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt accepted tonight the request of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes that he be permitted to retire from the supreme court on July 1.

The chief justice, in a letter made public by the temporary White House, informed the President that "consideration of health and age makes it necessary that I should be relieved of the duties which I have been discharging with increasing difficulty."

The President telegraphed Justice Hughes that he was "deeply distressed" by the letter and that it was his "every inclination" to beg him to remain. But he said "deep concern for your health and strength must be paramount."

Hughes' retirement created a second vacancy on the supreme court bench unless that caused by

Giant Bomber Waterworks Crashes; FBI Here Ordered Investigating Under Guard

Sabotage Seen in Fall of Ship Built for British; Four Die.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 2.—(AP) A four-motored British Liberator bomber crashed into San Diego bay today apparently carrying four fliers to death.

Hints of sabotage received the attention of the Federal Bureau of Investigation after a part of the craft had been recovered. The accident occurred when the controls of the four-motored canouflaged craft failed to function properly immediately after the take-off from Lindbergh field. The $250,000 25-ton plane rose sharply, its motors straining as it climbed at a steep angle, and then side-slipped, crashing on its left wing.

The sabotage possibility evidently was based on the contention of a company spokesman that the bomber controls could not jam unless they had been tampered with.

Part of Huge Order.
A spokesman for the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation, which has $400,000 in orders from Great Britain and the United States Navy and Army for the land and seaplane bombers, earlier had stated there were evidences of sabotage.

Harold Nathan, FBI chief investigator, said the bureau always makes preliminary inquiries into activities of this kind.

One of the five crew members was injured seriously. One body was recovered. The other three were missing.

Listed by the company as evidently dead were: William Wheatley, 38, Chester, N. Y., chief test pilot for Consolidated.

Alan T. Austen, 28, Kansas City, Mo., assistant test pilot.

Bruce Craig, 27, Chicago engineer.

William H. Rieser, 23, Cambridge, Mass., mechanic. His body was found.

Lewis M. McCannon, 25, Woodstock, Ill., was in a sick bay at the naval air station, North Island.

Reported Taxing.
There was no official account of the accident. One of many reports was that Wheatley was merely practicing taxiing and had not intended to take off. Such a maneuver would be to test the landing gear.

The plane broke in two after striking the water and the four motors roared out of the craft. The wing section was recovered by salvage crews. The tail section still was submerged.

Partly Cloudy, Probable Showers Forecast Here

Partly cloudy and continued warm, with short and probably light afternoon showers, is the weather outlook today for Atlanta, it was forecast yesterday at the United States weather office.

Temperature extremes anticipated were 72 and 92 degrees. Extremes of temperatures yesterday were 67 and 88 degrees.

Hitler-Il Duce Confab Augurs Of Quick Action

English Preparing for Fight; Weygand Visits Petain.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
The great belligerents moved quietly last night toward a showdown in the Middle East, and it appeared that the Axis was ready at last to make a direct thrust at the Suez canal.

German motorized troops have begun disembarking in French Syria at the port of Latakia, it was disclosed, and the first troopships to arrive—on May 29, even before the conquest of Crete—brought armored cars and mobile field guns.

Cyprus Removal Started.
With London informants unofficially acknowledging that Crete's loss knocked out the Mediterranean itself as a part of the imperial lifeline, the British removed British women and children from the island of Cyprus against an aerial assault expected at any hour.

London was understood to be preparing immediate military action against Syria, both in the hope of preventing a major Nazi entrenchment and to hearten Turkey against the hour when the Axis knocks on her doors for passive or active help in the developing offensive on Egypt.

(Richard D. McMillan, United Press correspondent at Cairo, asserted that General Sir Archibald Wavell's army of 500,000 men, stationed in strategic spots across the arid wastes on a 1,000-mile front from Syria to the Libyan border, were ready for what may be an "even fiercer battle" than Crete.)

Egypt, Syria Silent.
Telephone and telegraph communications was cut between Egypt and Syria.

A broadcast on the Berlin radio wave length said the French high commissioner of Syria proclaimed a state of siege for the eastern Syrian region bordering Iraq and clamped down new border restrictions against the Axis.

Meanwhile, Syrian airports used by the Germans as way stops en route to aid the now-squelched Iraqi rebels again were the targets of the RAF.

RAF Bombs Airdrome.
While other RAF units covered the British retreat from Crete, the Middle East air command announced its bombers yesterday destroyed one Axis plane and damaged several others at Aleppo airdrome.

Germans circulated reports that the wily Grand Mufti of Jerusalem.

Hitler Plan for Control of Seas: Surround Them With Armies!

This is the first of two articles taken from "The Time Is Now!" (The Dial Press), by Pierre Van Paassen, noted author whose "Days of Our Years" has sold more than 300,000 copies.

The thesis he develops was stressed in President Roosevelt's broadcast address last Tuesday night when he said, "The Axis powers can never achieve their objective of world domination unless they first obtain control of the seas." Van Paassen is widely known in Atlanta, where he formerly was a member of The Constitution staff.)

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.
For North American Newspaper Alliance.

They, sooner the leaders and the peoples of the few remaining free countries understand the gigantic scope and pattern of the present hostilities, the more chance there will be of stopping Hitler.

The first principle we must recognize is that the Nazi army is on the march to defeat the British navy. This is the war of the oceans, and Hitler is winning that war without a navy.

War of the Oceans.
The war of the oceans is the plan of the Geopolitical Institute of Germany, the Reich's political and military planning academy.

The Geopolitical Institute was discovered by America—in 1939! Actually it has existed since 1897, and its ideology has fermented in the minds of German political thinkers since 1870. It is significant that we were more than four decades late in recognizing the fact that the German government—whether a kaiserreich, republic or totalitarian state—enthusiastically sponsored a planning academy whose function was to develop a long-range project for the domination of the world.

Miss Mitchell Will Christen U. S. S. Atlanta

States, the author of that literary phenomenon, "Gone With the Wind," more than any other person, symbolizes Atlanta.

Her work brought about a keen and worldwide interest in Atlanta when the book was published, an interest which seems to grow with the years; the very nature of that work breathes her own vital interest in Atlanta's historic past, she, a native Atlantan, comes of pioneer Atlanta stock. Last, but not least, she owns a personality which—alone—would qualify her for the honor of christening an entire two-ocean navy.

Quick Choice.

When Mayor LeCraw was first asked with the duty of appointing a sponsor for U. S. S. Atlanta he discussed the matter with officials of The Constitution and emphasized his determination that any such appointment must be equitable and fair, that the appointee must be "truly representative" of Atlanta. The Constitution volunteered to assist the mayor with what he confessed was an important problem.

Perhaps three minutes elapsed in the first editorial conference of The Constitution staff on the question before Margaret Mitchell's name was mentioned—and from then on any other discussion was anti-climactic. Even the reluctance of Miss Mitchell's friends to add further to her demands from the public vanished before realization of her love for Atlanta, her proven public-spiritedness and the patriotic devotion which she has demonstrated on many occasions.

It was then that Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, called on Miss Mitchell and transmitted Mayor LeCraw's urgent invitation, which was so graciously accepted.

The mayor's letter of appreciation to the distinguished author follows:

"June 2, 1941. Mrs. John R. Marsh, 1268 Piedmont Avenue, N. E., Atlanta, Ga.

"My dear Mrs. Marsh: "In the name of the City of Atlanta, let me thank you for your patriotic consent to christen the U. S. S. Atlanta when that cruiser is launched on August 9, 1941.

"I am quite sure that I bespeak the sentiment of all Atlanta and many more millions of people throughout the United States when I say that no one could more properly honor these ceremonies than yourself.

"Through that wonderful book which you authored, 'Gone With the Wind,' you have brought Atlanta and the South closer to the nation as a whole and therefore your name is synonymous with everything that is best in Atlanta.

"Again expressing the appreciation of our city that you are willing to perform this worthwhile service, and with best wishes for many more years of usefulness, I remain,

"Yours for a Greater Atlanta, "ROY LECRAW, Mayor."

Well-Equipped Ship. The new Atlanta is one of the best equipped fighting craft in its class, according to reports.

It is the sister ship of three similar cruisers now under construction known as Juneau, San Diego and San Juan, all labeled "cruisers of the Atlanta class."

There will be twelve 5-inch guns and twelve smaller ones, six 21-inch torpedo tubes. The Atlanta will carry two or three aircraft with a catapult for launching.

Crew of 700. About 700 men and officers will constitute the personnel. Cruisers of the Atlanta class are designed for use as flagships of destroyer flotillas.

The Atlanta will be 541 feet long, 32 feet in the beam and will have a speed of 38 knots an hour, according to the best information available. It was authorized under the Vinson-Trammell bill of 1934 and the keel was laid April 22, 1940.

President Roosevelt designated her the Atlanta in 1938.

Second of Name. Details of the armament and other specifications were obtained from "Jane's Fighting Ships," the British book on naval registries. Naval authorities withheld the information as a naval secret.

The Atlanta is the second American cruiser of that name. The first had a 3,000-ton displacement and was commissioned in 1886. It was decommissioned in 1912 and sold.

Two other craft also have carried the name Atlanta, although they were not United States naval vessels. One was a British brig captured by the U. S. S. Wasp in 1814. There is no record of what became of it after the capture.

Another was the Confederate Ironclad, which saw action during the Civil War, of which there are no further details.

provides for annual sessions of the legislature.

Two amendments have special application to DeKalb county. They provide that Stone Mountain may issue refunding bonds and empower DeKalb county to establish sewerage, water and/or fire prevention systems and parks and hospitals.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall has ruled that voters do not have to vote on all amendments.

On the eve of the election passage of the four-year term generally was conceded the edge in view of the fact there has been no concerted organization against it. On the contrary, the forces urging its passage have been particularly energetic in organization work throughout the state.

State Holiday. Because the election happens to fall on the birthday of Jefferson Davis, state employees will have a holiday today and will have an opportunity to go to bat for the administration.

In many counties administration stalwarts were arranging transportation to the polls for voters who otherwise might not get a chance to cast their ballots.

Heavy Vote Seen. Taking all of these things into consideration, political observers were predicting a heavier-than-usual vote on the amendments.

They even went so far as to suggest that Governor Talmadge might have been toying with words when he forecast rain for today. They say he might have been thinking it would rain votes for the four-year term and bring an end to political drouth in Georgia.

Youth Training Plans Figure in Appropriations

House Committee Approves Increase in Labor Department Fund

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—Emphasizing that the agencies would train thousands of youths for national defense jobs, the House Appropriations Committee approved today a $1,917,778,000 expenditure by the Labor Department, the Federal Security Agency and related organizations in the 1942 fiscal year.

The committee said in a report to the house that $181,145,000 of the total could be charged to national defense and would finance the training of more than 4,000,000 youths.

Varied Programs. One group of young people will receive apprentice education with a $300,000 fund allocated to the Bureau of Labor Standards, another will be given vocational training with a $1,612,220 appropriation for the office of education and a third will receive "work experience training" with a special $60,000,000 National Youth Administration fund.

In addition, the big bill, one of the largest of the regular departmental supply measures, carried $96,500 for the Bureau of Labor Statistics to finance a survey of post-emergency employment problems. As house debate began, Representative Tarver, Democrat, Georgia, said that this subject should be given attention now "rather than wait until the conclusion of the present emergency."

The committee approved these major agency activities: Civilian Conservation Corps, $246,960,000; Office of Education, $127,796,800; National Youth Administration, $151,767,000; grants

Drastic Move By F. D. R. To Speed Aid Seen

President Signs Bills Expanding Priorities, Aiding Shipping.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 2.—(P)—President Roosevelt appeared moving tonight in the direction of new and possibly momentous decisions on stepping up aid to England.

The completion of two legislative steps to strengthen American armament effort—the expansion of mandatory priorities and the opening of Great Lakes ports to Canadian ore boats—was disclosed by the temporary White House. Winant Parley Planned.

But a decision on a broader course of action to assist Britain, a course of such dimensions as to measure up to expectations raised by last Tuesday's "fireside chat," some members of the presidential party here suggested, seemed to hinge to a large extent on a conference in the capital tomorrow between Mr. Roosevelt and John G. Winant, United States ambassador to London, now home to "report."

Mr. Roosevelt, closing out a weekend vacation at his country home, talked repeatedly with Washington by telephone through the day. Secretary Hull was on the other end of the wire at least part of the time.

The President has held in abeyance the exercise of any extra powers he assumed by proclaiming an unlimited national emergency.

Early Action Seen. Some analysts reasoned that Mr. Roosevelt would have wanted a report from Winant before acting, but a time and manner for implementing his proclamation. Some looked for a decision and action soon after the conference with Winant so that the psychological impact of the proclamation and the fireside talk would not be nullified by delay.

By signing two bills, Mr. Roosevelt extended the mandatory priorities system and allowed Canadian vessels to carry iron ore between American lake ports.

Previous Practice. Until now, the Office of Production Management has had specific authority by statute to assign mandatory priorities only to contracts and orders of the War and Navy Departments.

The new act will permit the agency to place under mandatory priorities the orders of Britain, or any other nation to which the lease-lend act has been applied, as well as orders of other branches of the government and of private industry when they are vital to defense.

The government also obtained specific power to extend mandatory priorities to subcontractors and subordinates and to regulate the distribution of materials and products subject to shortages because of the defense program.

Iron Ore Shipping. Since the demand for iron ore has exceeded all previous records, and 85 per cent of the ore comes from the Lake Superior area, there was a deficiency of American ships to transport ore from the mines.

As in the World War a statute reserving coastwise trade to American ships was waived for the 1941 transportation season to allow Canadian vessels to help carry ore.

Ramspeck Told Merits To Rule Air Depot Site

Chief of Staff Says Politics Won't Enter Into Selection.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, June 2.—General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, assured Representative Robert Ramspeck today that a site for the new army aircraft repair depot serving the southeastern states will be selected on its merits and not on a political basis.

Ramspeck went to the War Department for a final presentation of Atlanta's claims to the base, accompanied by Frank Shaw, secretary of the Industrial Bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

General Marshall said a decision on a site would not be made until later in the week. The matter has been referred back to the air corps for report on one or two minor details, it was revealed.

Shaw and Shaw left with the chief of staff, who heads the general army board making the decision, a memorandum over Marshall and the other sites proposed. He also reminded General Marshall that army officials in earlier testimony before the house appropriations committee had revealed initial plans for locating the depot in Atlanta.

Less Than Asked. The total was $35,848,778 higher than the corresponding appropriations for the present fiscal year which ends June 30, but was $31,069,022 less than the Budget Bureau recommended. The committee said the CCC recommendation $23,040,000 because, members said, private employment had decreased the possibilities of recruiting the usual 300,000 enrollees annually.

Included in the measure were increased funds for the Labor Department's conciliation service, and other money for the National Labor Relations Board, the Wage-Hour Administration, the Railroad Retirement Board and the Employees' Compensation Commission.

ZOO NEWCOMER—Here's a new member of Atlanta's Zoo Who's Who. She's none other than Catherine II, follower of Catherine I, mate of George, the favorite leopard at Grant park. Catherine I died about four months ago so the parks committee bought George a new mate and she came in yesterday. The leopard was shipped from Oceanside, N. Y., from Meens Brothers & Ward, wild animal traders, and cost $150, George I. Simons, general manager of the city parks, announced.

125 Millions For Defense Roads Sought

President Sends Special Message Outlining Highway Need.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today asked congress to vote $125,000,000 to strengthen strategic branches of the nation's network of highways and bridges.

In a special message based on a national defense highway survey made by the Federal Works Agency at his request, Mr. Roosevelt recommended that $100,000,000 be spent to develop access roads—"feeder" highways linking military and industrial centers with present road facilities.

He also asked congress to authorize $25,000,000 for widening some highways and strengthening bridges in key areas "where existing structures are inadequate to accommodate rolling equipment of the army."

Soon after the message was read Chairman Wilburn Cartwright, Democrat, Oklahoma, of the house roads committee, and Senator Carl Hayden, Democrat, Arizona, introduced bills to carry out the President's request.

The message did not name the specific localities where the proposed improvements would be made. Mr. Roosevelt said FWA Administrator John Carmody soon would send congress a specific request outlining the proposed projects and added that "it is hoped that this matter may have early consideration."

Farm Broadcasts To Start Thursday

Georgians will have an opportunity to keep up with the progress of agriculture in the state through a series of weekly broadcasts beginning Thursday of this week and continuing each Thursday thereafter, Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder announced yesterday.

Linder said the weekly program will be broadcast over WATL from 4:45 to 5 o'clock.

The commissioner explained it was his plan to have many visiting speakers, including successful Georgia farmers, to appear on the program. He added the program probably would open and close with music.

Council Kills LeCraw's Veto In Garrett Case

Body Votes Unanimously
To Pay Fireman's
Widow $1,200.

City council with only one dissenting vote—that of Alderman Ed A. Gilliam—yesterday overrode Mayor LeCraw's veto to a council resolution to pay Mrs. S. L. Garrett, widow of a fireman killed on duty, $1,200 as a supplement to the pension she will receive, but a court action may be required before payment is made.

Jack C. Savage, city attorney, ruled that payment of $100 a month for 12 months as provided in the resolution is illegal, and after council's vote yesterday B. Graham West, city comptroller, said he would confer with Savage and LeCraw to ascertain whether he can sign payment checks without exposing his bondsmen to suit.

Two other vetoes—one paying $559 to employees of West's office for extra work done on pension accounts and another paying the Meador Construction Company $242 for paving sidewalks in front of property to which the city holds tax deeds—were sustained in the voting.

Hitler Plans To Seize Seas With Armies

1904 and who is today glorified by geopoliticians as the pioneer of the oceanographic movement, is credited with influencing Kaiser Wilhelm in his naval ambitions. Ratzel's formula can be expressed as follows:

"The world is 72 per cent water and 28 per cent land. Any power that aims to dominate the world must control its waterways. The oceans—not the land—influence historical changes. If the Germans are to fulfill their destiny and become the masters of the world, they must reinforce their invincible army with just as powerful a fleet.

Britain's Part in Scheme.

"This means that they must either make Britain their ally and partner or, if that should prove impossible, compel the British to surrender their fleet and shipbuilding wharves. Nothing can prevent the Germans from accomplishing this task except a failure to recognize that the capture of the road to world conquest leads over the waterways."

At present the waterways are policed by the British navy. In order to wrest that control out of Britain's hands, Germany must defeat the British navy. It would therefore have seemed logical, at first glance, for Germany to have poured all her energy and wealth in the creation of a fleet powerful enough to challenge the British. That is, in fact, what the Kaiser did. He built so strong a navy that his uncle in England, King Edward VII, warned him that Britain would not counter him so mightily a rival in the Atlantic.

English Turned Tables.

When the test came, the Kaiser's navy proved no match for British power. The English turned the tables on Wilhelm, and with their allies launched armies that marched overland and forced the German navy to surrender.

Hitler—or, rather, the geopoliticians—did not fail to learn from the mistakes of the Kaiser. The nazis did not build a new fleet to take the place of the ships which went down to the bottom of Scapa Flow in 1919.

Hitler Foreign Policy.

A study of Hitler's foreign policy up to the Spanish "civil" war gives evidence that the Geopolitical Institute wavered between a pro-English policy, leading to a partnership, and a pro-French policy aiming to isolate England. This indecision was due to the difficulty the institute, under General Haushofer, was experiencing in evolving a program to overcome the weakness of the German navy. But when Hitler's planning body presented him with the new tactics, he no longer courted British favor.

What is this new plan that Hitler is now so skillfully executing? It is the "march around the oceans." Hitler's armies are driving to those shores from which the shipping lines of the world can be dominated. In the present battle the German army is being pitted against the British navy. And the way things have been going this year, it appears that Hitler will win the battle of the Pacific, as well as the battle of the Atlantic, without invading the British Isles.

The American people's eyes are riveted on the Atlantic, and they are made to see nothing worse than the sinking of British ships, whose faster or slower disappearance serves as a sort of barometer by which they gauge the stability of British staying power on the beleaguered island. Hitler, meanwhile, proceeds to surround the waters of the earth's surface and to drive British ships from their harbors and bases.

"Useless" Navies.

Of what use will navies be, if they have nowhere to land, nowhere to take on ammunition, nowhere to go for repairs? They will become useless, and will be forced either to sail into the enemy's hands to be surrendered, or be scuttled at sea.

The first step Germany had to take, in her attempt to gain control of the Eastern Hemisphere, was to break the link connecting the various parts of the British, French and Dutch empires, by attacking the Mediterranean.

Preparatory Moves.

Long ago the Geopolitical Institute prescribed the following preparatory moves for the conquest of the Mediterranean basin:

1. An alliance with Italy.
2. Control of the coasts of Spain.
3. Control of Albania.
4. Control over France.
5. Control over Spanish Morocco, French Morocco, Algiers and Tunis.
6. Control over Libya and Egypt.
7. The establishment of at least two continuous overland routes from Germany to the shores of the Old World's sea; for instance, through France and Spain, through Yugoslavia and Greece or through Turkey and Palestine.

Suez and Gibraltar.

Once these points are established, the following mere formalities of closing the two exits at Suez and Gibraltar. I call it a formality because, with virtually the entire coastline of the Mediterranean in Germany's hands or in the hands of Germany's partners Italy, Spain and France—the British navy will be rendered impotent.

Indeed, whatever British naval units happen to be in any part of the Mediterranean when Germany locks the exits will be trapped, or will have to fight their way out under particularly perilous circumstances.

Three Battles Under Way.

While the Mediterranean battle is still unfolding, the Pacific and Atlantic battles have already begun. It is, however, quite obvious that the Pacific battle cannot enter its final stage before the battle of the Mediterranean is successfully concluded. Nor can the battle of the Atlantic proceed much further until Gibraltar is under German control.

Geopolitical views are extremely flexible concerning the sequence of the battles of the Pacific and the Atlantic. They are guided by the measure of political and military resistance. Thus, any political weakness on the part of Washington in the Pacific would immediately accelerate the strategic plans in that ocean. On the other hand, any sign of decline of morale on the British Isles would undoubtedly bring about a supreme effort on Hitler's part to administer the coup de grace in the Atlantic first.

Fate of United States.

But whether the war of the oceans, after the Mediterranean interlude, proceeds full force to the Pacific or to the Atlantic is relatively unimportant. The fate of the United States is at stake in either event.

In the Battle of the Pacific, the African conquest assumes extraordinary importance, because its strategic significance spills over into the Battle of the Atlantic. Nazi domination over Africa ipso facto places the entire eastern shore of the Atlantic, from Cape town to Trundheim (with the exception of the English Isle) under the aerial

Winter, Spring Driest Period Recorded Here

Georgia's Drouth Called Greatest Experienced
Since 1892.

From December through May, Georgia experienced the driest combined winter and spring season since the weather bureau began keeping records, in 1892, it was disclosed yesterday by George W. Mindling, United States meteorologist.

At the same time, Mindling held out little hope for an immediate break in the damaging drouth as he forecast continued warm and partly cloudy weather, with short and probably light showers in the late afternoon.

Shower Little Help.

A violent shower broke over the city late yesterday afternoon, and the total rainfall was about 1½ inches, the weather bureau stated. "The drouth situation is serious not only in Georgia," said Mindling, "but there has been exceptionally dry weather from Maine to Georgia and as far west as Indiana. In fact, virtually all the territory east of the Mississippi, except Florida."

"Some persons believe these dry periods are caused by sun spots. But the argument against that is if the sun spots were the cause, the deficiencies or excesses would occur over all continents at the same time. The answer is no one really knows what causes them."

In May, rainfall in Atlanta totaled only .44 of an inch. The driest May on record was 1936, when only .06 of an inch was recorded. Normal rainfall for the first five months of the year is 22 inches. The deficit so far this year was placed at 11.90 inches.

The second successive day of clouds and local, scattered thundershowers left the southeast somewhat cooler, but virtually as dry as before. Weather conditions over the nation generally were unsettled, with a low barometer centered over Missouri.

London Press Raps Britain's War Policies

Asks When End of Masterly Retreat Will Come.

LONDON, June 3 (Tuesday)—(P)—The London Daily Mail, in the sharpest press criticism of the British cabinet in weeks, today asked in an editorial:

"When are we really going to get down to the job of winning the war? When are we going to run machines, factories and shipyards to full capacity; when are we going to see an end of masterly retreats?"

Saying the country was seriously concerned about the way things are going, the editorial continued: "Churchill declined to believe there was any uneasiness about Greece. Perhaps he can be persuaded that the people are deeply disturbed about Crete."

"We have been surprised in Norway, France, Greece and Crete... We have suffered from serious mistakes. The Germans seem to have made no mistakes. "Something is wrong. Britain needs new ideas. She certainly needs a radical shakeup on the home front. "Changes are needed and Churchill should not hesitate to make them. The fate of his government may well depend upon his prompt and vigorous action."

Greek Government Offers Resignation

CAIRO, Egypt, June 2.—(P)—The Greek government-in-exile resigned today and the resignations were accepted by King George II. The King was reportedly convinced it was now desirable to reduce membership of the government.

Emmanuel Tsouderos remains as premier, with the additional portfolios of foreign affairs and finance.

Bill To Promote Farm Morale Is Introduced

WASHINGTON June 2.—(P)—Representative Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina, introduced today a bill to authorize annual appropriations of $10,000,000 to promote the physical fitness and morale of rural people through the development of co-operative agricultural extension programs.

and submarine control of Hitler's war machine.

Besides, it paves the way for a final contest with the United States for preponderant influence over South America. The distance from Dakar to Natal, for instance, is less than half that from New York to the Brazilian port. And what an excellent take-off point Africa represents for a close political rapprochement with South America!

Strong-Hand Policy.

All the signs indicate a strong-hand "good neighbor policy" between Hitler and the South American republics. But whatever type of political pressure Hitler uses against the United States via South America, one incontrovertible fact will then be understood even by those who answer all arguments about the Nazi danger to America with that phrase about three thousand miles of Atlantic ocean:

"That fact is that the 'wave of the future,' with Hitler riding it, will be beating violently against the Western Hemisphere. The war of the oceans will be right at our own front door."

Hughes Placed Among Great Jurists of U.S.

Retiring Chief Justice is Classed With Marshall, Taney.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(UP)—Charles Evans Hughes' retirement removes from the supreme court bench a jurist whom history may record as one of the nation's great chief justices—along with the immortal John Marshall and Robert B. Taney.

He served twice on the nation's highest tribunal, first as associate justice from 1910 to 1916. Then, in 1930, he was appointed chief justice by President Herbert Hoover.

He was the oldest man ever to be named chief justice—68. But he brought with him a mental and physical vigor that had absorbed the widest range of human experience.

Knew Politics. Hughes knew politics as Governor of New York and as Republican presidential candidate in 1916. His first term on the bench had given him a wealth of judicial background. He possessed an intimate knowledge of foreign relations and international law gleaned during four years as secretary of state under President Harding and later as a world court judge and special emissary.

Rooted in the years of the Civil War, Hughes' life is woven in and out of modern United States history, through economic collapse and recovery, through world wars and economic crises.

His 11 years as chief justice were decreed by fate to be turbulent, revolutionary years when legal doctrines a century old were placed under fierce scrutiny by the exigencies of nation-wide economic collapse and the spectre of a world order disrupted by a new war.

Greatest Work. It was in these years, however, that he made his greatest mark in American history and performed some of his greatest work.

Throughout this era, he adhered to a sort of "balance" doctrine of constitutional thinking.

Unlike Marshall, the advocate of federal power, or Taney, a champion of states' rights, Hughes believed the function of the supreme court was to "maintain the balance" between state and national power—"local government over local concerns... national authority over national concerns."

Philosophy Apparent. That philosophy was apparent throughout the turbulent constitutional crisis during the early years of the Roosevelt administration.

While much New Deal and liberal state legislation was being tossed out by conservative colleagues who were in the majority, Hughes bitterly dissented from decisions outlawing railroad pensions, the first Guffey coal act and a New York minimum wage law for women.

Hughes authored the historic gold clause opinion of 1935, deciding a question of monetary power in the government's favor. He upheld TVA operations.

Voted Against NRA. He voted against validity of the NRA, the first Agricultural Adjustment Act and a "hot oil" law.

He made judicial history with his decision upholding the National Labor Relations Act. Later he voted to uphold Social Security legislation, the second AAA and the second Guffey coal law. He wrote a vigorous opinion sustaining a District of Columbia women's minimum wage statute and reversing the court's earlier position in a New York case.

The decision on the labor relations act marked an historical turning point in attitude of the court—an apparent switch from conservatism to liberalism in constitutional interpretation.

Sidewalks Washed Out. Two sidewalk washouts were reported, one at Forrest avenue and Felton street, and another near 33 Golf circle.

The rain was by way of being a triumph for Governor Talmadge's powers as a weather prophet. The farm-raised Governor said last Thursday he had noticed the moisture was rising in the earth, which meant rain.

Talmadge Prediction. "It will be here by Tuesday," he said. "It will be a regular gully-washer and trash-floater."

Though his prediction held true for Atlanta, Weatherman George W. Minding said the rain here was a local shower and did little good elsewhere in the state. Savannah had a half-hour shower that measured .21 inches, and Alma, in southern Georgia, got relief to the extent of .63 Sunday night and .15 inches more today.

The rain came a short time after a resolution was introduced in city council expressing confidence in Governor Talmadge as a weatherman. The resolution in part said:

"General council wishes to express its supreme confidence in the ability of the Governor to temp. Jupiter Pluvius, and to produce at least a sprinkle, if not a torrential downpour."

MISS NAPSONIA—The suspense was lifted promptly at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when election officials at North Avenue Presbyterian School announced that Miss Alice Rayle had been elected "Napsonia" and will reign over class day. The election was held some time ago, but officials kept identity of the winner a deep, dark secret until a short time before the winner was due to reign. Shown crowning Miss Rayle is Martha Rumble.

The skidding motorists in disrupting power and streetcar service. Four passengers and the motor-man on an outward-bound Decatur car suffered mild shock when lightning knocked a live wire across the car, short-circuiting its wiring.

Homes Darkened. A 19,000-volt line serving the industrial area near Fort McPherson was knocked out by lightning, and hundreds of homes in the West End section were darkened when a circuit at the West Lake substation on Bankhead highway was "locked out" by a short circuit.

In addition there were 12 or 15 other miscellaneous breaks, caused by lightning or wind-blown limbs, power company officials reported, but these were quickly repaired.

Phones Damaged. The telephone company reported that a number of cables, cracked during the dry weather, had become soaked during the downpour and short-circuited, interrupting some telephone service briefly.

Many fallen trees were reported, one blocking the street between Bedford street and North avenue, another near 105 Griffin street, and another at Durant and Sixth. Live wires were reported down at 350 Simpson street, and on Chestnut street near the railroad tracks.

Sidewalks Washed Out. Two sidewalk washouts were reported, one at Forrest avenue and Felton street, and another near 33 Golf circle.

The rain was by way of being a triumph for Governor Talmadge's powers as a weather prophet. The farm-raised Governor said last Thursday he had noticed the moisture was rising in the earth, which meant rain.

Talmadge Prediction. "It will be here by Tuesday," he said. "It will be a regular gully-washer and trash-floater."

Though his prediction held true for Atlanta, Weatherman George W. Minding said the rain here was a local shower and did little good elsewhere in the state. Savannah had a half-hour shower that measured .21 inches, and Alma, in southern Georgia, got relief to the extent of .63 Sunday night and .15 inches more today.

The rain came a short time after a resolution was introduced in city council expressing confidence in Governor Talmadge as a weatherman. The resolution in part said:

"General council wishes to express its supreme confidence in the ability of the Governor to temp. Jupiter Pluvius, and to produce at least a sprinkle, if not a torrential downpour."

Justice Hughes' Public Career Long, Varied

Service to State and Nation Began in 1905.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(UP)—Here are the highlights in the public life of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes:

1905—Leaped into national headlines as counsel for New York state legislative committees investigating gas and electric utilities and insurance practices.

1906—Elected Governor of New York, defeating William Randolph Hearst. Re-elected in 1908.

1910—Appointed associate justice of the United States supreme court by President Taft.

1916—Resigned to become the Republican party's candidate for President opposing Woodrow Wilson.

1921—Appointed secretary of state by President Harding. Assembled the world-wide disarmament conference. Resigned in 1925.

1928—Appointed a justice of the permanent court for international justice at The Hague, Netherlands.

1930—Appointed chief justice of the United States by President Hoover.

1941—Announced his retirement effective July 1.

Justice Hughes To Quit Court Post on July 1

the retirement of Associate Justice James C. McReynolds is filled before July 1.

Jackson May Succeed. (It was predicted in Washington that Attorney General Robert H. Jackson would succeed Justice Hughes.)

With the filling of the two vacancies, President Roosevelt will have appointed seven of the nine supreme court justices.

Senator James F. Byrnes, South Carolina Democrat, has been mentioned prominently for months as a likely candidate for appointment to the high tribunal.

Health Is Reason. Following is the text of Justice Hughes' letter to Mr. Roosevelt, dated June 2:

"My Dear Mr. President: 'Considerations of health and age make it necessary that I should be relieved of the duties which I have been discharging with increasing difficulty. For that reason I avail myself of the right and privilege granted by the act of March 1, 1937, 26 U. S. Code Section 3758, and retire from regular active service on the bench as chief justice of the United States, this retirement to be effective on and after July 1, 1941. I have the honor to remain, 'Respectfully yours,

"CHARLES EVANS HUGHES." F. D. R.'s Telegram. This was Mr. Roosevelt's telegram of reply:

"My Dear Mr. Chief Justice: 'I am deeply distressed by your letter of June 2 telling me of your retirement on July 1 from active service as chief justice of the United States. This comes to me, as I know it will to the whole nation, as a great shock, for all of us had counted on your continuing your splendid service for many years to come. My every inclination is to beg you to remain, but my deep concern for your health and strength must be paramount. I shall hope to see you this coming week in Washington. Sincerely and affectionately yours,

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

Won't Comment. The chief justice this afternoon refused to comment on reports that he would retire in the near future, saying that any information on the subject "would be appropriately announced in due season."

It was learned, however, that Mrs. Hughes for some time has been urging the chief justice to lay aside active work and devote his remaining days to rest and travel.

During today's session of the court—the last until next October—the chief justice did not show the vigor which has heretofore marked his conduct of the affairs of the tribunal.

May Visit Canada. It is his present intention to remain in Washington during the remainder of the month. Mrs. Hughes has been under medical treatment for some time. If her condition will permit the chief justice and Mrs. Hughes will then go directly to the Canadian Rockies, where they spent a part of last summer.

The chief justice has had a career so distinguished and versatile that it has few parallels in American statesmanship.

Governor of New York, Secretary of State, presidential candidate, member of the World Arbitration Tribunal, twice justice of the supreme court—these have been the offices along a luminous trail of achievement. He was 79 last April 11 and has been eligible for retirement since 1934.

Child Prodigy. A child prodigy who had read all of Shakespeare before he was eight and prepared for college at the age of 11, Hughes won quick eminence at the New York bar. Before he was 45 his state had called him to conduct a series of investigations of gas rates, insurance and coal.

The fame growing out of these inquiries swept him to the governorship in 1907. He held that office for two strenuous terms. Then President Taft named him associate justice of the supreme court and Hughes retired—he thought forever—from active politics.

On the eve of America's en-

Retirement of Justice Hughes Makes 7th Vacancy for F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(UP)—Here, in chronological order, are the changes in the Supreme Court since President Roosevelt took office March 4, 1933:

Willis Van Devanter retired June 2, 1937; succeeded by Hugo L. Black.

George Sutherland retired January 18, 1938; succeeded by Stanley F. Reed.

Benjamin N. Cardozo died July 9, 1938; succeeded by Felix Frankfurter.

Louis D. Brandeis retired February 13, 1939; succeeded by William O. Douglas.

Pierce Butler died November 16, 1939; succeeded by Frank Murphy.

James C. McReynolds retired February 1, 1941; vacancy unfilled.

Charles Evans Hughes retired, effective July 1, 1941.

trance into the World War, however, the Republican party persuaded him to oppose Wilson in a stormy presidential campaign. By a narrow margin he was defeated and returned quietly to the practice of law.

Headed Cabinet. Four years later President Harding selected him to head the first post-war cabinet. As Secretary of State, Hughes piloted the Washington naval conference, rebuilt America's foreign service and wrestled with war debts and reparations. Then on March 4, 1925, he left the cabinet to attend to his neglected personal affairs.

Illness forced Chief Justice Taft to resign February 3, 1930, and on the same day President Hoover asked Hughes to fill the vacancy. He accepted and presided over the high court during one of the most turbulent periods of its history.

Center of Controversy. The tribunal became the center of flaming controversy resulting from its decisions on Roosevelt administration legislation and the President's proposal to appoint new justices for elderly members who did not retire.

The tribunal had delivered a large number of decisions declaring unconstitutional Roosevelt administration legislation. Statutes toppled over included the National Industrial Recovery Act and the Agricultural Adjustment Act. Cries of denunciation came from New Dealers, including President Roosevelt himself. It was contended that a "conservative" court was wrecking the administration's program.

Tide Is Turned. Then the tide turned in favor of the administration, even before the proposal by President Roosevelt on February 5, 1937, to inject "new blood" into the tribunal by adding a new justice for each member who did not retire upon becoming 70 years and six months old.

Soon the tribunal upheld the constitutionality of the National Labor Relations Act and the administration's social security law. Thereafter most of the decisions involving the administration were in its favor.

Justices also began to retire and by January 4, 1940, President Roosevelt had appointed five new members—a majority.

Only Wrote Letter. The chief justice was widely credited with playing a prominent role in defeating the court reorganization plan. His public activity, however, consisted only of writing a letter telling the Senate Judiciary Committee that:

"An increase in the number of justices of the supreme court, apart from any question of policy, which I do not discuss, would not promote the efficiency of the court."

Hughes was not absent from his duties a single day on account of illness until May 6, 1939. It was announced then that he was suffering from the grippe. He returned to the bench on April 17.

Quick Recovery. Then on June 3 announcement was made that he was undergoing treatment for a duodenal ulcer—one in the small intestines. He was soon able to leave for his summer vacation and was reported to have recovered quickly. During the 1939-40 term he did not miss a day.

Owner of one of the most celebrated sets of whiskers in the world, Hughes for years has attracted the immediate attention of tourists who flock to the courtroom.

They see him sitting in the center of the bench, frequently asking questions of attorneys to clear up a perplexing point or to keep the lawyers from straying away from the issues.

Work Filled. Practically all of his time has been devoted to the court work, except during summer vacations. He and Mrs. Hughes go out, with few exceptions, only on Saturday nights and their date book is filled months in advance. A famous Washington hostess once was reported to have invited them to a dinner a year ahead of time.

He obtains his exercise by a before-breakfast walk when the weather permits.

Ignoring birthdays as much as possible, the chief justice once told a newsmen:

"I'm going along without reference to the calendar."

Some of the best-known opinions written by the chief justice:

Called sit-down strikes "a high-handed proceeding without shadow of legal right."

Declared unconstitutional the national industrial recovery act.

Upheld the national labor relations act, as applied to three manufacturing companies.

Sustained the administration's effort to bar payment of obligations in gold.

Held constitutional a Washington state law fixing minimum wages for women. This reversed previous decisions.

Department of Commerce Places Regional Office in Atlanta. Secretary of Commerce Jones has named C. P. Persons regional manager of a "Department of Commerce in miniature," with offices in Atlanta, to have supervision over the states of Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, according to word received at the district office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in Atlanta yesterday.

"Every facility available to businessmen in Washington can now be served through the regional office," continued Secretary Jones.

Atlanta has been selected as the location of one of the 12 regional offices established by the Department of Commerce in a plan of decentralization aimed at fuller service and more prompt action in aiding the nation's businessmen, Secretary Jones explained.

BY NORMAN CHANDLER, CHAIRMAN, NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS COMMITTEE

MONKEYS want security, warmth, peanuts and bananas, companionship—even as you and I.

Monkeys get these things in the zoo—probably to a far greater degree than in their native trees. But they lose their FREEDOM to get them.

Now the great difference between a FREE man and a SLAVE has nothing to do with peanuts or security. The free man keeps his freedom by being able to PROTECT HIMSELF. The slave, or the monkey, gives up his freedom to GET PROTECTION. Dictators, like zoo keepers, believe it is unnecessary for the INDIVIDUAL to make any decisions.

"The STATE will tell you what you are to do, what you are to believe," says the dictator. "And if you do not do and believe as you are told—NO PE

Seizure by U. S. Of French Isles Given Support

Connally 'Shocked' by Report of Alliance With Axis.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(P)—Senator Connally, Democrat of Texas, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, declared tonight that if France gave military or naval aid to Germany "the United States should seize Martinique, French Guiana and other French territories in the western hemisphere."

The Texan made the assertion in an address prepared for delivery over the Washington Evening Star radio forum and NBC. He did not elaborate on the proposal in his talk, other than to say that "we have been shocked by the report that France may give military or naval aid to Hitler and Mussolini."

63 Persons Killed In Chungking Raid

CHUNGKING, China, June 2.—(P)—Japanese bombers scored direct hits on a public dugout and on the French consulate today in a raid that left more than 300 casualties, including at least 63 dead.

All the dead reported so far tonight were in the public dugout. The French consulate was hit, but none of the staff was injured. Six bombs landed in the nearby compound of the British embassy, causing damage to buildings.

Atlanta Man Is Shot While Cleaning Pistol

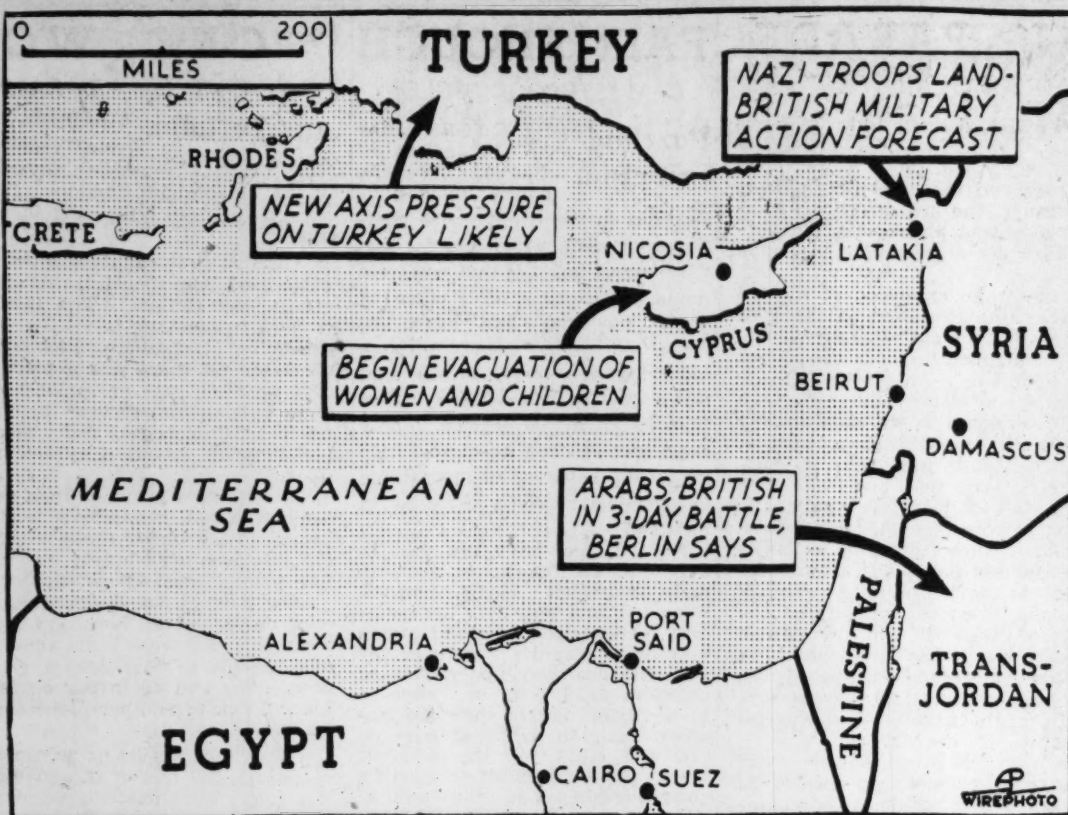

Grady hospital physicians described as critical last night the condition of William C. Holt, 20, of 1236 West View drive, who was admitted yesterday morning suffering from a bullet wound in the left lung.

Friends described the wound as an accident, inflicted while young Holt was cleaning a pistol. Atlanta police were investigating last night.

FORCES GATHERING IN WAR'S ARENA—Crete's fierce struggle having ended in a crushing defeat for the Allies, the Axis forces and Britain appeared today to be preparing for a showdown in Middle East. German Panzer units are reported disembarking in French Syria at Latakia (former ally of Turkey from her peacetime ally), while General Sir Archibald Wavell's Army of the Nile has taken up positions on the 1,000-mile front to Libya. Women and children have been removed from the naval base island of Cyprus, while the German radio broadcasts that Arabs have been fighting the British in Trans-Jordan for three days. Some sources predict the most severe struggle of the war for possession of the Suez canal.

Nazi Panzer Forces Land On Suez Route

salem, long a thorn in Britain's side, had arrived at the rich Mosul oil fields of northern Iraq to reorganize Iraq resistance to the British.

The bearded and turbaned Mohammedan priest—his full name is Haj Amin Effendi Al Hussein—attempted without success to fan a Moslem uprising against the British during the month-long Iraq struggle which ended yesterday with an Iraq-requested armistice. He has made several attempts since he was exiled from the Holy Land in 1937.

Pipelines Still Cut.
Britons said the Haifa pipelines from the Mosul fields remained cut. They expressed the belief some German forces still were in the petroleum-producing region around Kirkuk, 100 miles south-east.

The French for their part appeared headed for a fateful decision as to how far to co-operate with the Nazis, for General Maxime Weygand, the commander of the still considerable French forces in North Africa, hurried by special plane to Vichy to see Marshal Philippe Petain, the chief of state. Weygand's talk with Petain occurred only a few hours after another and a bigger conference.

Axis Leaders Meet.
Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini met once again upon Brenner Pass, where five times before they had met in the twilight intervals between the ending of one adventure and the beginning of another, and the impression was received that another major offensive was being planned in that chill and lofty rendezvous. Everything about the meeting had the quality of time repeating itself and even the communique could have been used as readily for any of their previous conferences at the Brenner. "A spirit of cordial friendship," a complete agreement of views.

But while these bare and careful generalities told nothing, this was generally accepted: that Fuehrer and Duce congratulated each other upon the capture of Crete from the British and Greeks; that they talked, along with their military leaders, of schemes for using that island as an aerial base from which to strike at the key defenses of the British empire in Palestine, in Cyprus, in Egypt and at the Suez.

Study U. S. Intentions.
Too—this was the understanding in Rome—they probably took counsel as to how best to meet any American move that might grow out of President Roosevelt's expressed determination to defend the western hemisphere with the United States Navy and not to permit a threat to America to arise in French West Africa, the Azores or other Atlantic islands.

(Hitler and Mussolini were believed to have agreed upon a plan of closing the Mediterranean to the delivery of the United States Navy and not to permit a threat to America to arise in French West Africa, the Azores or other Atlantic islands.)

It was thus a day in which an Axis political offensive supplemented, and partly masked, the beginning of a shooting offensive, for the German leaders were active not only a Brenner but in Berlin.

In an effort to frighten first Britain and then, presumably, the United States in view of Washington's policy of aid to the British, Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering declared that the capture of Crete by aerially-transported troops had "proved before the whole world the words of the Fuehrer: that there are no unconquerable islands."

New Diplomatic Move.
A secrecy tighter than usual surrounded the meeting of the two Axis partners at Brenner Pass. Not even the customary advance rumors of such a meeting leaked out, and afterward official sources were impenetrable.

Diplomatic pressure on Russia and Turkey to open new routes for an Axis march into Palestine and Iraq also was believed a likely topic.

Current here for some time, but without confirmation, have been rumors of such a diplomatic move. Some observers said that while Germany dealt with Russia, Italy might take on the task of persuading Turkey to abandon her pro-British attitude.

Crete Success Cited.
The spectacular success of paratrooper invaders in Crete was cited by those who leaned to the theory that Hitler and Mussolini considered a lightning attack on the British Isles.

They reasoned that Britain still was the main objective of the war, that she must be conquered before the conflict could end and that such a conquest must take place before the United States supplies of food and war materials could start to turn the tide. As for the United States, it seemed certain that plans to meet any menace from that quarter were discussed by Hitler and Mussolini, but it was agreed that nothing had yet been done by America to require Axis action.

Byrnes Warns U. S. To Insure Delivery of Aid

Says We Must Take Steps To See British Get Materials.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., June 2.—(P)—Senator Byrnes, Democrat, S. C., said today that the United States must "take whatever steps it is necessary to take" to insure delivery of material assistance to Great Britain.

America, he said, can and will do no less. He referred also in his speech, prepared for delivery before the Wofford College graduating class, to President Roosevelt's declaration of a national emergency, and said, "it is better to submit to a temporary concentration of power now than to a concentration camp later."

Omitting direct reference to convoys, Byrnes asked: "If we stand idly by while Hitler sends our munitions to the bottom of the sea, what will the world think of us?"

"If you resided in one of the republics of South America, relying upon the pledge of the United States to defend your country against attack, would you think us weak or cowardly?"

America has been told, he said, "that if we seek either by plane or surface vessels to insure the delivery of these munitions, our planes and ships will be attacked by Hitler, and that this development will plunge us immediately into the conflict. That may be true, no one of us can with certainty say what Hitler will do."

Singing Gunner Gets His Limit In Nazi Planes

British Marine's 'Bag' 20, One of Escaped Comrades Says.

By LARRY ALLEN.
ALEXANDRIA, June 2.—(P)—A young British marine firing the last anti-aircraft gun in action at Cana, capital of Crete, brought down 20 German bombers before the British were forced to withdraw, one of his comrades said on his arrival today from the Nazi-conquered island.

The gunner, Lance Corporal Thomas Neal, 23, now is missing with five other members of the last marine detachment to leave Crete.

Private Patrick Mohoney, of Liverpool, who operated the searchlight near the gun position, told how Neal sang and shouted defiance at swarms of Stuka bombers as he pumped hundreds of two-inch shells from a Bofors gun into the attackers.

Nine in Two Days.
"From the moment the Germans started the attack on Cana with heavy bombing and machine-gunning," Mohoney related, "Neal, with three companions helping to operate the gun and two others passing ammunition, fired almost continuously."

"Neal's gun was still firing on May 27, the day the last of us cleared out of Cana. I don't know whether he got away alive."

"Each time the group of Nazi dive bombers came over, Neal would let all but the last plane pass. Then he would concentrate upon it. He got nine within two days and at least 20 within the fortnight."

Tried Trickery.
The Nazis soon caught on to the tactics, Mohoney continued, "so they decided to get him by trickery."

"They kept sending over 10 to 20 planes, but behind these groups, there trailed three more. Neal took the usual shots at the last plane of the first formation, and the three trailing planes then plastered his gun position repeatedly with sticks of heavy bombs."

"But they failed to get him. Neal's gun kept firing while bombs burst about him, some firing the gasoline dumps and ammunition depots nearby with terrific explosions."

"Neal sang and shouted encouragement to his companions."

Changed Position.
"Then he countered the Nazi counterattack. He attached the gun to a light lorry, and immediately after firing at the last plane of a formation, Neal and other marines hopped onto the lorry and moved the gun to another position."

"Nazi bombs kept bursting on spots Neal and his gun had just abandoned," Mohoney chuckled.

From another point, the gun would go into action again, and shortly before Mohoney left he said he saw Neal bag two Stukas in a 10-machine formation.

"I do hope he got away safely," Mohoney said.

BERLIN ATTACKED.
BERLIN, June 3.—(Tuesday)—(P)—A number of civilians were killed and injured last night when Berlin was attacked from the air, authorized sources said today.

'All-Out' Support Printer's Mistake

CLEMSON, S. C., June 2.—(P)—A typesetter's error made a great difference in what Clemson College seniors offered their government upon graduation here today.

In a prominent position on Page 1 of the commencement issue of The Tiger, student newspaper, appeared this pledge:

"Clemson College seniors are ready to back this government in whatever course of action is deemed necessary for the preservation of our American ideas, if need be with our LIVERS. Our fortune and our sacred honor."

Manchester Feels Heavy Nazi Bombing

Worst Raid in Months Leaves Many Killed, Damage High.

MANCHESTER, England, June 2.—(P)—The Luftwaffe broke days of relative calm over England with a smashing explosive and fire attack upon this midlands factory city early today.

Rescuers struggling with wreckage through a pall of smoke hesitated to estimate the casualties. However, many homes, at least four shelters, a nurses' home, two hospitals, three churches, three hotels and two movie theaters were hit and observers expected the dead and wounded to reach large totals. Business property was considerably damaged.

Nurses' Home Hit.
"The Germans announced they had destroyed factories and warehouses in the British supply center with 'numerous' incendiary and explosive bombs causing heavy explosions and extensive fires."

The nurses' home was wrecked by a direct hit and many women were believed to have been buried. A physician crawled into the hospital wreckage with a miner's lamp and amputated the debrided arm of a nurse. She died shortly after.

Family Wiped Out.
In one district a bomb killed a family of three on the street as they ran for shelter. The father's body was found behind a wall, the mother's swinging limply from the second story sign of a pub and the remains of the 10-year-old daughter could not even be found.

A young curate on shelter duty outside his church and five air wardens on street patrols were among the casualties.

The attack, which lasted two hours, was the worst the city had seen in months. Several fires were started, but they were kept under control.

First Reader Is Chosen at Boston Session

6,000 Attend Annual Meeting of Christian Scientists.

BOSTON, June 2.—(P)—George Channing, of San Francisco, Cal., was chosen today first reader of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, during the group's annual meeting.

At sessions which brought 6,000 Christian Scientists from many sections of the world, Miss Margaret Crawford, of Seattle, Wash., was named second reader.

Earl McCloud, San Antonio, Texas, and Oscar Graham Peeke, Kansas City, Mo., were the new members elected to the board of lecturership, while Miss Margaret Morrison, of Chicago, returned to the board after serving during the past three years as second reader in the Mother Church.

Others on the board of lecturership were re-elected to serve during 1941-42.

Earlier, John Randall Dunn, of Boston and Centerville, Mass., was named president of the Mother Church for the ensuing year, and the Christian Science board of directors called upon the Scientists to consecrate themselves to the defense of the democratic system of government.

Gainesville Joins Blackout Program

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. GAINESVILLE, Ga., June 2.—

A voluntary move to reduce the consumption of electric power due to the extreme drought throughout the southeastern states, has been taken by the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce. Citizens have been urged to turn off all display signs, by 50 per cent ceiling illumination, dispense with all luxuries, decorative electric fixtures and similar current users.

L. M. Shadgett, district head of the Georgia Power Company, said the voluntary move was being made in an effort to secure a voltage possible for use by the aluminum industry in its defense manufacturing. The city has stopped using its electric pump at the water works, putting into play instead its Diesel engine. The city has also dispensed with whitewash lights.

Milk Mixture For Stomach Ulcers

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains the new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take, Lurin must be taken on an empty stomach. It is a half glass of milk. Costs but little and sold under an absolute guarantee that it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Jacobs Drug Stores and drug stores everywhere.—(adv.)

Election Day

On the ballots which Georgia voters will mark today there are some 70 proposed amendments to the state constitution. Most of these are "local" amendments, proposals affecting only one city or one county. Under Georgia's strange system, no matter how restricted an issue may be, geographically, the voters of the entire state have to pass upon it. Archaic, to be sure. But there is no reason why the rest of the state should refuse any community the right to make any improvement it desires.

So, it will be the part of decent courtesy, alone, to vote for these local issues.

There are three or four issues to be passed upon, however, which are of vital importance to the entire state.

Most important of all, probably, is the proposal to make the term of office for governor and other state house officials four years instead of two. With the provision that no governor can seek re-election until one full four-year term has elapsed since his last tenure of office.

Approval of this proposal will work toward better government for Georgia. It will give each governor time to put his program, approved by the voters at the polls, into effect. It will remove him from political influence, inasmuch as he will not have to campaign for re-election during his term in office.

As it now is, under the two-year term, each governor has to begin campaigning for his "endorsement term," almost as soon as he takes the oath.

Better government will be served if Georgia votes for the four-year term.

There are three separate amendments on the ballot which should be voted to put this reform into effect.

Another proposal is for annual sessions of the legislature. This would be retrogression to a system which the state wisely abandoned a few years ago, when the biennial sessions were voted. Too much law-making is bad for any state. Any reasonably competent legislature can enact all the laws needed for any two-year period during one 60-day session. Annual sessions are not only disturbing and disruptive to all interests of the state, business, professional and agricultural, but are also conducive of excessive "politicking" by the legislature and to the encouragement of factionalism.

A vote against this amendment will undoubtedly be a vote for a better Georgia.

Fulton and DeKalb counties are especially interested, also, in an amendment which provides for a hospital authority for the two counties. Under this plan the creation of a great medical center here, with a greater and safer and far better Grady hospital, a greater and better Battle Hill sanitarium, will be possible.

The need for this improvement is so urgent that everyone should vote for this amendment.

It is to be hoped that a tremendous total of ballots will be cast. Under democratic government it is more important that every qualified voter express his desires, through the ballot, than that any issue be won or lost.

This is the first election in which Fulton county will use the new style of Australian ballot. Under this system it is impossible for anyone to know how any individual voted. It is, for the first time, a truly secret ballot.

The size of the ballot may prove confusing. Every voter is, therefore, urged to go to the polls, to carefully study the ballot form and then to cast his vote for what he honestly conceives to be the best interest of the state.

In Fascist Italy, a citizen of Milan dies in an attempt to eat 24 hard-boiled eggs. So much for a canard that these babies can swallow anything.

A local dub has had his first try with the Christmas set of matched clubs and finds he is getting 15 extra yards into the rough.

Everyone thinks the White House did well in picking the mighty atom, La Guardia, to head the home defense. Watching the new Revere dash into Concord on a hook-and-ladder will be fun.

Power Shortage Continues

The rains which fell at odd places in the south on Saturday and Sunday were insufficient to have any appreciable effect upon the power shortage. Consumers of electricity, both commercial and residential, must continue and accentuate their efforts to economize in power use if the emergency in the defense program is to be met.

The power supply for this section would have been ample to carry through the drouth had it not been for the heavy demands of new defense plants. Vice versa, the supply would have been ample for these plants had not the drouth come. The situation simply is that the load is too heavy when both come at the same time.

Atlanta has had one week of a partial blackout, in order to conserve power. Other cities are undergoing a similar experience. Elimination of display window lighting, reduction in street lights, cutting down on air conditioning and on other electrical services will undoubtedly contribute to solution of the problem.

There is no one who uses electricity in any degree at all who cannot do his part in this voluntary reduced-use campaign. By care in the home, use of electricity can be materially cut. By watching that no unnecessary lights burn, that the radio does not run with no one listening to it, that refrigerator doors are opened as little as possible, that electric irons are not left on when not in use, and in other ways, each user can reduce his consumption of kilowatts.

If everyone reduces consumption by one-third, the problem will be near solution. The south can do this, voluntarily. If it is not done voluntarily, it may be necessary for the Office of Production Management to restrict power consumption and set up a system of priorities.

For there is no rain, in sufficient quantity to remedy the condition, in sight.

One who mingles with the stars of other days says Theda Bara never abandoned the dream of a film comeback. As a revamp, we assume.

Decentralization

The United States Department of Commerce is evidently going in for a program of decentralization. With announcement of the appointment of C. P. Persons as regional manager, with offices in Atlanta, of a division which will include Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, Secretary Jesse H. Jones divulges a plan to establish 12 "departments of commerce in miniature," one for each federal reserve district.

"Every facility available to businessmen in Washington can now be served through the regional offices," said Secretary Jones.

In the sixth district, in addition to the regional offices here, Mr. Persons will have supervision over district offices in New Orleans, Birmingham, Jacksonville and Savannah. All these offices will combine the functions of the department's Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and of the Census Bureau.

The entire plan is devised to bring the valuable services of the department closer to the individual businessman. Washington, in the rush of the defense program, is overcrowded and under increasing stress. It will serve a good purpose and much of the work done by this department, in the past, can be diffused through the 12 regional offices.

It must also be remembered that the demands of the defense program, such as reports on industrial capacity, machine tool availability, desirability of proposed defense industry sites, etc., must pass through this department. With a fully authorized regional headquarters here, much valuable time can be saved and lost motion can be eliminated.

Mr. Persons, head of the new office, has been with the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce for six years, serving in New Orleans, Jacksonville and Atlanta, and is excellently qualified both in training and by knowledge of this territory for his new, important post.

On one minor point, however, Petain has not receded a single inch. The language in which these outgivings are delivered must be French.

Flame-throwing, by the Nazis, is an amenity of the North African fighting. It is one of the new free services, for the foe with a cigaret but no match.

Georgia Editors Say:

LET THEM SPEAK THEIR MINDS

(From The Newnan Times.)
Let's have a word in praise of prospective graduates, even now working their minds upon problems to be solved at the annual commencement.

While the race of human beings pokes fun at the youngsters, isn't there something to praise in the eagerness with which they attack the evils of the day and the hopefulness with which they plead their special causes?

Youth may be criticized for lack of years, but if cynical experience could solve half the problems that it thinks it can, where would impetuous youth find anything to correct?

So, to all young people of Coweta county let these greetings appear. Let them proceed with their study of "problems," and make known their "cures."

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

THE ATLANTIC PATROL WASHINGTON, June 2.—Thus far the President has taken only one concrete step to implement the policy laid down in his message to the nation. He has reinforced and extended the Atlantic patrol. How much does the step mean? The answer must be tentative, for the subject is hedged about with the prohibitions of official secrecy. Yet there are a few facts on which to form a judgment.

First, the Atlantic patrol is itself only an extension of the old so-called neutrality patrol, ordered by the President in the first days of the war. The ostensible purpose of the old neutrality patrol was to prevent belligerent vessels from operating off the shores of the Americas. It contained the complete germ of the Atlantic patrol, however. If the patrolling ships and planes sighted German craft, they announced the fact to Washington in an intentionally simple code, which, it was not difficult for the British navy to break. Second, the neutrality patrol was transformed into the Atlantic patrol sometime ago, when the Atlantic fleet was ordered to extend its surveillance to 30 degrees west, or to a line about halfway across the ocean, running down between Iceland and Greenland. The order was given at a moment when conveying as far as Greenland was being so seriously considered that political preparations for it had actually been made. At the last minute, probably because of fear of public opinion, the President substituted the half-measure. And although Winston Churchill told the British people that the half-measure was pretty ineffectual. The area under patrol was not a real danger area. German planes, raiders and submarines have rarely operated beyond 30 degrees west. Furthermore, when the order was given, the Atlantic fleet was too small to make the patrol really useful.

Third, the Atlantic fleet has now been reinforced, however, and the patrol has been extended. The reinforcement was decided on shortly before the President's message to the nation, after a prolonged battle at the Navy Department between the admirals who blindly insisted on keeping the Pacific fleet at full strength and the admirals who realized that the war's real danger point was the Atlantic, some strength must be transferred there. The extent of the reinforcement is not known. Neither is the new extent of the patrol, except that it must be well beyond 30 degrees west, if the President's announcement had real meaning. But it is confidently asserted that the patrol will be useful now.

WHO WILL SHOOT FIRST? The usefulness of the patrol should be pretty obvious. The American ships and planes ranging the Atlantic waters have orders to find and report the location of German raiders, planes and submarines. By so doing, they both make it harder for the German craft to surprise British convoys, and easier for British war vessels and planes to track down the enemy. Apparently the orders are being fairly boldly carried out. During the Bismarck episode, for example, the patrol vessels were sent to intercept the German warship and keep watch on her if she followed a southwestern course. But while the patrol will be useful, the question remains whether it will be useful enough.

The battle of the Atlantic cannot be won by a mere reconnaissance operation. The President is reluctant to be the aggressor. It is thought that, if the patrol sufficiently hampers the Germans, they will be forced to fire the first shot, and will thus give the President a pretext for the necessary next step.

In truth, the most important thing about the patrol is its secondary purpose. As to the likelihood of this happening, there is much disagreement. Obviously, the last thing the Germans want in the world is an incident tending to bring this country into the war. There is strong professional opinion, despite the President's declaration to the contrary, that even convoys would not mean shooting. On the other hand, the President and certain of his more optimistic strategic advisers frankly hope that the patrol will have the desired result.

ROOSEVELT'S PROMISE In any case, the patrol must be regarded as no more than a first step. The next step to be taken—and it will be taken soon if the President has reached the great decision his advisers describe—must be resort to the system of active shipping protection outlined in this space yesterday. It is to be regretted that the next step is still to be delayed. It is also to be regretted that even now the President has not become entirely frank. He said in his speech that means to protect shipping were being studied by his technical advisers, although the study period was long past, and the means were ready and waiting to be used. He said at his press conference that conveying was among the means agreed on. But the President may be pardoned his last hesitations and indirections, if he abides by his promise to the country. This promise was simple and unequivocal.

"Our patrols," he said, "are helping now to insure delivery of the needed supplies to Britain. All additional measures necessary to deliver the goods will be taken. The delivery of needed supplies to Britain is imperative. This can be done, it must be done, it will be done."

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Primitive Folks.

It was 'way in the Canadian back country, close to the northern border between Ontario and Quebec. I spent a summer there, operating a small cheese factory. I was in my early 'twenties, then.

This factory had been built, a year or two before, by a cheese maker from the outside country. In building it, he had brought to the people of that territory their first real money. He paid them, for their milk, every 60 days during the season and they began hitting it up the hill to the family buggy and going to the nearest town, some 20 miles away, to spend it.

Prior to that time they had conducted their essential business on a barter method, trading at the cross roads store, which was at a lumber headquarters some 15 miles from the factory. They would take the produce of their fields and of their barnyards and sell it to the operator of that general store, taking their pay in trade, for the overalls and sugar and shoes and other few necessities of life. They didn't need money.

That storekeeper didn't like the coming of our factory. He had enjoyed a monopoly and, inasmuch as he gave them about half market price for what they sold and charged about double for what they bought, he had grown rich rapidly.

Living in Log Houses.

Most of the farm homes were built of logs, with baked clay packed between the interstices. The home where I, as honored boarder, lived that summer was of logs, but larger than most. It had an upstairs. An attic which you reached by climbing a ladder through a trapdoor. They needed that extra room upstairs. For in the family were, all told, 21 children and 17 of them lived at home. They all slept together, in that one big upstairs room, on pallets on the floor, except the youngest, a baby of one year, who slept with ma and pa downstairs.

The downstairs was, really, one big room, too, but at one end a couple of little cubicles had been created with clappingboard.

Each was barely large enough for a bed, a chair and a dresser. The old folks and the baby slept in one of these tiny rooms and I, the boarder, had the other. There was a giant cook stove—you needed a big one for a family of such size, all healthy and with hearty appetites. The cold winter months that stove stood handy to the table, in the big room downstairs. But in the summer they moved it out onto the wide, open porch and there cooked, ate, washed—in fact, did all their living. They burned wood that the old man and the boys cut from the timber on their own land.

The old man was not a good farmer. He was too good a hunter, to be frank. He had cut the timber off enough of his land—some 300 or 400 acres in all—to provide a pasture and a field to two for grain and the needed garage truck for his family. But he hated farm work. It took too much time from hunting, fishing, canoeing, etc. When he had to work in the fields, or around the barn, he complained bitterly about his rheumatism, but he could take a birch bark canoe through the rapids, with one foot on either gun, like nobody's business.

And the Food!

The old lady spent $1.50 annually on her clothes. Two Mother Hubbards that she tied around the middle with a piece of string. She had enough of her kind—some 300 or 400 pieces in all—to provide a pasture and a field to two for grain and the needed garage truck for his family. But he hated farm work. It took too much time from hunting, fishing, canoeing, etc. When he had to work in the fields, or around the barn, he complained bitterly about his rheumatism, but he could take a birch bark canoe through the rapids, with one foot on either gun, like nobody's business.

And, boy, how she could cook. She may be special, deep dish meat and fruit pies for my midday meal and send them to the factory by one of the kids. She cooked flapjacks for that entire crew for breakfast and if you didn't eat at least 10, full size ones, she'd worry about your health. She'd find a pan with melted butter and cook eggs in it, like you'd cook doughnuts in hot grease. And eight or 12 eggs, so cooked, were supposed to be about right for a normal man's meal.

We lived, almost exclusively, on the products of their own land and on the old man's wizardry with fishing tackle and hunting rifle. And we lived gorgeously! I'll tell you more about it some day soon.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Saturday, June 3, 1916:

"London, June 3.—Picking its way from its base in the Kiel canal, the German high sea fleet on Wednesday afternoon emerged into the North sea and off the coast of Jutland engaged a British fleet through the afternoon and night in what probably was the greatest naval battle in the world's history, so far as tonnage engaged and tonnage destroyed was concerned."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Wednesday, June 3, 1891:

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Puzzling Criticism. NEW YORK, June 2.—The editor of one of the few honest union publications in the country has written a criticism which puzzles me. "My honest belief is that you were doing all of us a good turn at first," he says, "but have lost some of your power through bickering over petty affairs that serve now as space-fillers rather than as an actual service. I only hope that you can be of real help in getting some of the remaining chislers and crooks exposed to daylight."

Now, I, too, have felt that to expose an extortioner, stick-up man or balbuting parliamentarian some criminal boss over the members of an isolated local union may be to magnify a petty situation. But how can "the remaining chislers and crooks" be "exposed to daylight" unless they are exposed individually? And why do not the 2,034, of the so-called labor press themselves conduct such investigations and publish the facts to the rank and file?

A long time ago I promised William Green to expose a hundred criminals in official positions in the unions of the American Federation of Labor, I have lost track of the score, but among those whom I did expose, always referred to in the union press as "one or two untrustworthy brothers" were two international union treasurers, three international presidents and I don't exactly know how many presidents and business agents of locals. I provided also that a Chicago judge, Oscar Nelson, who still sits on the bench as a labor judge and who was a high official of the Chicago Federation of Labor for 25 years, served as counsel for the crooked Building Service Union and, through his law firm, collected a fortune of hundreds of thousands of dollars from a lot of poor janitors engaged in handling garbage, stoking boilers and the like.

Another Counsel. I proved that the general counsel of the American Federation of Labor is himself, Joseph Padway, served as counsel for the crooked Scallie and, with Mr. Green, certified that Scallie was of good character when he was obviously a gangster who lived well by robbing the workers. I proved, further, that Padway was serving—and still serves—as general counsel for the Movie Employees Union and rapturously extolled Gangster George Browne, the president of that organization, who sits with Mr. Green in the executive council of the A. F. of L. with the title of vice president.

I have never offered this before, but I might add that Mr. Green's own ambassador to the west coast, Mayer L. Lewis, on February 23, 1940, sent an official telegram of sympathy to Willie Bielt, the old mackerel, praising his "splendid work" and "excellent leadership," although it was then common knowledge that this crook had used his power as bargaining agent to shake down the bargaining agent of the employers. I might add, too, that Congressman William Schulte, of Hammond, Ind., a member of the committee which governs the capital city of the United States, not only knows intimately the characters and affairs of Gangster Browne's union, which recently have brought federal indictments against Browne and Bielt charging the extortion of $550,000, but served on a committee of the union which investigated the conduct of the union in California in 1938. Schulte is a member of the union and, by this investigation, certainly had a fine chance to discover the crookedness that was then in progress. I see no reason to assume that he didn't discover it. I am more tempted to believe that he did because the opportunity was so good.

Sixty Crooks. Richard Lamb, of the Pittsburgh Press went through a big file of letters received from rank and file union men and women, and from others, and, in a single-handed investigation, turned up a roster of, I think, 60 crooks with criminal records. And I am sure that if it were possible to put a man on each individual lead, as the FBI and the Treasury can afford to do, it could be shown that the American Federation of Labor is absolutely crawling with crooks. In New York Tom Dewey has been sending them off to prison, one by one, and mostly small fry, for years with no assistance from organized labor, and in Cleveland there was a great catch of these crooks in the union racket. The Common Laborers Union, which has had no convention in 30 years and two of whose local officials owned racing stables, is a promising field for minute investigation.

The labor editor who wrote me seems not to consider the fact that it is the "petty" union boss or racketeer who robs and oppresses the members and exploits them for extortion, in the first place. Multiply him by x and he is no longer "petty" but a great, brutal robber operating under charter from the American Federation of Labor.

Of course, I needn't ask why the editors of the union press fail to do their obvious duty as journalists and unionists to run down individual crooks and drum them out of jobs and into prison. They are mostly not journalists at all, but "we boys," engaged in plugging their own racket and shielding the union bosses who pay them, all to the distress and detriment of the rank and file workmen of the United States, and the integrity of the nation.

ribble battle with "Molly," the Mexican lioness, yesterday. He was fighting for the life of Inman Bell, the little four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Bell. Both the little fellow and the superintendent were injured, but neither one seriously.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

RUS IN URBE NEW YORK CITY, June 2.—It was almost nine years ago that I made my first flight to New York. I remember it very well indeed. The plane was one of the old biplane Condors. I still think they were great planes, even if they did quit using them and are not making biplanes any more.

On this first flight of mine to New York there were just two passengers who flew from Atlanta to New York. A few others got off at way stations. The two were Teddy Roosevelt Jr. and I. Those planes made all the stops. They floated into Greenville, Charlotte, Greensboro, Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Havre de Grace (if there was a passenger), Camden and Newark.

I recall, a year or so later, going out to the air port and they were putting into service the very first Douglas plane. That day we had 13 passengers and a storm caught us outside Camden. We had to go to Atlantic City and land while the storm blew itself out to sea.

I've flown a lot since then and to New York often. But today, coming in, we ran into a fairly low ceiling. LaGuardia Field's control tower was letting one plane go in at a time. There were five planes "stacked up" for awhile.

We flew at varying altitudes and some miles apart, in great wide circles, for an hour and 10 minutes before we, the fifth plane, went in. We were high above a great, stark desert of piled-up dark clouds through which we could not see. Flying up there, droning on and on in our circle, we could see, now and then, the black speck of another plane some five or six miles away going in its circle.

When they did let us go, we dropped down and there was plenty of ceiling, 800 feet of it, and we were just above Coney Island. It was cold. Even on the ground it was cold. New York was enjoying a temperature of 58 degrees. People were in overcoats, and we who had left Atlanta, gasping in linens, were shivering. (They say it will be hot tomorrow.)

I got to thinking, droning on up there in circles for an hour, of those early flights. Today our pilots knew where they were and where everyone else was. They talked as they willed with the control tower.

I doubt if we have scratched the surface in aviation. I think it will, in time, all but doom sea power as we know it today. Indeed, we've seen the Germans win the first big test. It was not quite even in that the Germans had the closest bases. But they landed 30,000 troops without surface ships, and it is a very foolish man who will attempt to depreciate or underestimate that feat. The plane will decide this war.

SOLDIERS ON PARADE New York looks different. There were thousands of soldiers on liberty in New York Sunday night. By taxi and on foot I tried to look in on what was going on. It was a liberty night. The restaurants, the bars, the orange juice stands, the milk bars, the hot dog bars, the movies, all were doing a big business.

There were many, many sailors, too, but the soldiers had them outnumbered. After all, Brooklyn and Sand street, near the Navy Yard, gets the big play from the Navy.

New York looks different. The Army and the Navy supply the dominant color on weekends. They were behaving, too. The bars were crowded. But mostly it seemed to be beer they were buying. It would be, as the secretary of war has said, a most grievous error to abandon control, which is working so much better than any other system this nation has attempted in regulating alcoholic drinks, and to substitute the old lawless, uncontrolled, viciousness of the gang-ridden speakeasies and bootlegger. The soldiers are doing all right. Treat them as humans and they'll treat us as such.

BRITISH SHIPPING Here for the beginning of a tour of some of our major defense manufacturing plants in the east, I talked tonight with newspapermen whose sources of information are excellent.

They think we must inevitably begin some sort of conveying. They do not know what plan the President will work out in conjunction with the confiscation of foreign ships in our harbors. But they expect something.

They say the President's speech of last week, in which he said Germany was sinking ships twice as fast as England could build them, was a great understatement. They said that the official records will show England has already lost more tonnage than was lost in all four years of the first World War and that her replacements are not more than 20 per cent of her losses.

They say the administration regrets that England made such a big announcement of the arrival of a shipload of American eggs, bacon and cheese a few days ago. It emphasized how scarce those items are in England. They say that, far from food being short in Germany itself, the Germans are believed to be eating better than Englishmen.

The lifeline must be bolstered. England took severe losses in the Crete campaign, losing at least eight of her best cruisers and destroyers and having many others damaged. Losses in the evacuation have not yet been announced.

It is not a happy picture. And they believe we must soon take steps to get food and equipment to England in greater quantities than now is reaching her.

The Giant Is Still Unbeatable Unless He Is Caught Asleep

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

We are a mongrel breed, in the sense that we are not thoroughbreds of any particular race. The bold, the adventurous and the liberty-loving of many races combined to produce the breed called Americans, and in many ways we are the greatest people on earth.

That is not a boast, but a simple statement of fact. A few other lands have more people, but most of them are whipped by poverty and ignorance.

America is great and powerful beyond all reckoning, and neither our people nor others can guess the limit of our capacities.

Forty-three years ago, when we made war on Spain, rulers and military people in Europe expected us to be defeated. We did make a mess and a scandal on land, but fortunately it was a naval war and the real fighting was over in a couple of hours. Our ships met the enemy on two occasions and quickly wiped out all opposition. Nothing remained but the job of mopping up.

The incredulous world realized that a new power had arisen, but it quickly forgot. Each generation must learn its own lesson. Nineteen years later Germany challenged us by sinking our ships "without trace" and murdering all on board, because we dared to ship goods to England—which, under international law, we had every right to do.

The Germans said we weren't strong enough to hurt them. And they seemed right for a time, for we made the usual mess for want of centralized authority; but when we hit our stride we did a job at which the world still marvels. We even astonished ourselves.

But now we are beginning a job that is infinitely greater, for we must match a nation that has learned our methods; that had a seven-year start, and that now has the stolen resources of an entire continent to draw upon.

We are blundering; we are wasting precious time; we are spending too much energy on land forces instead of concentrating on ships and bombers, which alone can win; but when we hit our stride, we shall outproduce the whole world.

All we have to fear is that the end will come before we are fully awake.

OFF THE RECORD—By Ed Reed

"Soon as he teaches Bosco to bring him The Constitution, I'll teach the parrot to read to him!"

Dudley Glass

Are you bothered by tunes? Fragments of old songs? Can't get 'em out of your mind? Let's all get together and chip in on a psychiatrist's fee.

They infest me most while taking a shower or shaving or driving to town.

Mark Twain wrote a famous story about a foolish rhyme he heard and couldn't forget—especially on a train, where the wheels thumped out the rhythm. It was a verse about "a pink trip slip for a 10 cent fare—punch in the presence of the passenger." He thought it would shorten his years. Maybe it did.

I've been pestered for weeks by something which was wished on me. It is my custom on Sunday evenings to tune in the radio for a favorite program and I'm always a minute too early. So I catch the finale of a theme song about a certain shampoo which I shall not advertise. But it reminds me to "use my head, save my hair, with So-and-so's shampoo."

My hair is past saving. But the darn tune gets into what's left of it.

And ever since the recent opera engagement I've been obsessed with a fragment of an aria. My vocal range is from A to B-sharp, 1-2, so I can't even hum it. But I can lie awake at night and hear it, from start to finish.

I've heard "Cavalleria Rusticana" a dozen times and was never nuts about it. I like it, but there are other operas I like far more.

But, after 20 years of hearing it, that aria of Santuzza, "Well, You Know Dear Mamma," has crept into my system. I find myself humming the first bar or two and then groping for the rest. I can't get any farther. I've either got to hunt up the record and play it until the needle wears out or take a good, strong pill.

And So What?

Election day. Long string of amendments to be voted upon.

They've been printed in full in a number of newspapers, but I've never read them and doubt whether anybody has read all of them.

A few have statewide application. Others permit Cobb or some other county to sell funding bonds. Local things like which are not Fulton folks' affairs.

I've never heard a good defense of the Georgia system, which requires that the voters in Union County take a share in telling folks in Glynn County how they shall conduct their local affairs.

No more picnics at Soap Creek, in Cobb County. Otis Brumby, in the Cobb County Times, spells it Soap's Creek and he probably knows.

For years it has been a favorite spot for youngsters—swimmers and waders. Ancient covered bridge, swift and clear stream, abandoned buildings of a paper mill which operated many years ago. Picturesque. Popular with amateur landscape painters.

Brumby says it has been posted and a guard placed there by the owner because visitors were careless with fire. Many of the shrubs and wild flowers were destroyed. And the place was all littered up after picnic parties.

He doesn't blame the owner. Neither do I. But a lot of folk will miss Soap—or Soap's—Creek.

Wonders Why Tunes And Foolishness Stick in the Mind

Of the beauties that have been lost in the name of enterprise: "Of course if we get too streamlined and too much chromium trim we shall lose our air of rustic simplicity. But we never have prized that anyway. We did not consciously try to remain either rustic or simple, we were that way because it was easier on us. When we think of building in Quitman we always think of doing something like we have seen in the city. Our hotel had to be as much like the Ansley as we could manage. It could have been a nice, rambling, two-story inn with a cool porch and an outdoor court, but no, we had to have an elevator on account of city hotels had them, and we had to have shops.

"By the same token we cut the nice oaks in the middle of the street. It is true they were planted to shelter the farmers' critters when they came to town to trade. The farmers, of course. Trees down the middle would bring coolth but we didn't see any trees in Atlanta's downtown section and if we let trees grow in our streets visitors might think we are just a mere hamlet and not a city. So on that account in summer we cross the street trying in our own fat. When we cut the chinaberry tree on the city hall corner something went out of our lives that cannot be replaced by glaring glass awnings and hot pavement."

Where Drouth Counted.

Virginia Polhill Price, of the Louisville (Ga.) News and Farmer, was terribly put out about the drouth, which was ruining her garden. But one day she went out to look at some farm land and remembered about the man who said, "I wept because I had no shoe, until I met another man who had no feet."

She was thinking then of the farm folk to whom the drouth meant not dead flowers and wilted grass but food or near starvation. The cotton was holding its own—cotton reveals in hot, dry sunshine. But the onions and beets and potatoes were ash gray tangles and the corn looked sick and sad. But she found one optimist:

"If de good Lawd hep us, we gonter make real good, a little boy with thin legs and a wide smile told me."

The Constitution invites expression of opinion by its readers. This column is open for that purpose. All communications must be signed and all are subject to editing for conservation of space. Brevity makes argument effective and impels attention.

ISOLATIONISTS DEAD BUT DON'T KNOW IT

Editor Constitution: Public opinion in this country is not with Lindbergh and Senator Wheeler and other isolationists; a very small per cent is with them in the extreme, but the rest is either uninformed or unalert.

It would be good for everybody concerned if these men who are trying to carry the country into a hole should go into one themselves and stay there till the war is over. Some people can't see the tide even while it is rising before their very eyes. He who cannot see what Hitler and his crowd are trying to do to the world is as blind as a bat.

The trouble with the isolationist is that he is dead and doesn't know it. A. B. CANNADY, Atlanta.

Notice Served On Printing of Pension Lists

State Ordered To Comply or Lose U. S. Funds.

Governor Talmadge will complete publication of Georgia's pension lists before July 1, but the Social Security Board in Washington served notice on Georgia yesterday that legal steps will have to be taken to prohibit the practice after that date or else the state's federal funds will be stopped.

The chief executive was on a trip through the state yesterday and was not available for comment, but indications were that he would act at the proper time to protect the state's federal funds.

Requirements Vague. As a matter of fact, the Social Security Board was rather broad in its statement of what must be done, requiring only that Georgia provide "an adequate legal basis" for protection of the pension records.

Legal authorities were at a loss as to just what was meant by "an adequate legal basis" but suggested that a proclamation or executive order from the Governor setting out that there should be no further publication of pension lists would be sufficient for the Social Security Board.

Campaign Promise.

It was predicted yesterday that Governor Talmadge will complete the publication of names in three more weeks. This will get him under the wire and all that will be needed then will be some statement or order setting forth "an adequate legal" basis that no more names will be printed.

State officials were quick to point out that there would be no particular reason for the Governor to get in a row with the federal agency after the entire list has been published. He will then have kept his promise to the people. He told them in his campaign last summer he was going to publish those names. There probably would be no necessity for printing them again during his present administration.

Letter From McNutt.

The warning to Georgia was disclosed in a letter which Paul V. McNutt, security administrator, addressed to Congressman Malcolm Tarver, of Dalton.

He said the board had notified all states that effective July 1, 1941, state administrative agencies must be provided with authority to prevent the publication of the names of recipients. Here is practically what he wrote:

"The 1941 session of the Georgia legislature took no action with respect to safeguarding the confidential nature of the public assistance records. The Social Security Board has been advised that Governor Talmadge intends to make these lists available to the public generally and to have them published in newspapers of the state.

Leniency Suggested. "The Social Security Board has notified the Georgia State Department of Public Welfare and the Governor that unless the state is able to provide an adequate legal basis for the protection of these records by July 1, 1941, it will not be possible for federal grants to be certified to Georgia for old-age assistance, aid to the blind, and aid to dependent children after that date."

One official of the board, Arthur J. Altmeyer, said if state authorities interpreted the state laws to include a proper basis for providing the safeguards "the board would be loathe to question their interpretation of the law."

Public Record Approved.

This was thought to mean that the states could exercise considerable freedom in setting up their own safeguards.

Congressman Tarver pointed out that although he did not believe in giving permission to publish the names, he expressed the opinion a taxpayer would be able to inspect the records and see what is being done with public funds.

June Funds Delayed.

"However," he said, "the Governor of Georgia is publishing a list of them in his own newspaper, and assuming he completes that list by July 1, 1941, after which it will be prohibited, I assume there would be no reason why the grants to Georgia should not continue in the same way as heretofore."

Georgia welfare officials said yesterday the state had not received its June allotment of federal funds but that this was not expected until near the 15th of the month.

War on Venereal Disease Pushed

An appeal to Atlantans to contribute to the defense program of the National Anti-Syphilis Committee as a means of protecting America's manpower against syphilis and gonorrhea was issued yesterday by Dr. Frank K. Boland, of Atlanta.

He urged "full support" of the project and quoted John J. Pershing as saying that in the last war venereal disease was "the greatest single threat to the Army's efficiency and morale."

Atlanta members of the Georgia Anti-Syphilis Committee are Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, Mrs. Murdock Eiken, S. R. Greenblatt, Dr. James R. McCord, Walter H. Rich, and Kendall Weisiger.

Columbia Honors Clifford Witcher, Son of City Official.

Clifford Witcher, 27, son of Raymond C. Witcher, city purchasing agent, and Mrs. Witcher, a teacher at Faith school, will receive the degree of doctor of philosophy in physics today from Columbia University.

He was a first honor graduate of Georgia Tech in 1934. While there he was a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Kappa Eta Kappa, and of the social fraternity, Phi Kappa Phi. He was a winner of the president's gold "T" for all-round excellence.

He received his masters degree in physics from Emory University in 1935, when he was 22. At Columbia he was winner of the Trowbridge Fellowship in the School of Engineering and was elected to the scholastic fraternities, Sigma Xi and Epsilon Chi.

He was the winner of the University Fellowship, one of the highest honors which Columbia bestows.

He did these things despite the fact he has been blind from babyhood.

Building Permits Show Drop Here

Construction permits declined in Atlanta during May this year as compared to the same month last year, according to figures released yesterday by A. C. McDaniell, assistant city building inspector.

A total of 220 permits were issued for May, 1941, for $403,243 worth of construction. This figure compared to 458 permits for construction valued at $3,717,075 for the same month last year when federal low-cost housing projects pushed the total value skyward.

The May figure for the current year also was below that of April, this year, when 276 permits were issued for work costing $570,538.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Nevertheless—the element of paradox in life, the mysterious zig-zag of truth—it is this, when you come to think about it, that gives our life on earth its danger and zest and glory. The facts of life have a disconcerting way of confounding our careful theories, contradicting our calculations, contradicting our dogmatic conclusions. Just when we think we have found a formula to fit the facts of life, something unpredictable turns up, making our pretty plans look absurd.

"Just when we are safest, there's a sunset-touch, A fancy from a flower-bell, some one's death. A chorus-ending from Euripides— And that's enough . . ."

Enough to embarrass our precision, enough to dynamite our dogmatism, enough to play havoc with the axioms which we had thought quite water-tight and comprehensive and secure. You can't card-index life. You can't pigeon-hole truth. You can't get the mystery of it tied up in a neat little formula, with no loose ends. We try it ever so often, but just as often it proves a vain effort. At the heart of life there is a great nevertheless.

The Bible has a good deal to say about the "nevertheless" of life. Take this one for example: "No chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous; nevertheless afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness." (See Hebrews 12:11.) The writer to the Hebrews is saying that in the extent of life's stern discipline, when our dearest desires are frustrated, we shall surely suffer; but if we face these reverses in the certitude of God's unfailing grace, we shall come forth from life's battlefield with a rich harvest of deep and inviolable peace. They only know the secret of the Lord.

Again, take Peter's great "nevertheless." "We have toiled all the night, and have taken nothing; nevertheless Thy word I will let down the net." (See Luke 5:5.) Here we have the dramatic scene of Jesus appearing to His disciples at dawn, their nets empty, their bodies weary, their hopes at low ebb. Jesus told Peter to cast the net again into the water—into the water near the shore—into the water in the light of day. That was no time to catch fish in that lake. Every fisherman knew that. But Jesus had said to try His plan, and Peter, tired and discouraged, was willing to follow Jesus against his own judgment. And when they drew the net it was full of fish. Here we have the "nevertheless" of an unquestioning devotion to the will of God. For a final "nevertheless," listen to Jesus: "Nevertheless, not My will, but Thine be done."

U. S. O. Drive For $90,000 Starts Today

Fund Will Finance Community Centers for Service Men.

The United Service Organization campaign to raise $90,000 in Fulton and DeKalb counties to finance community centers and recreation programs for service men will get under way today.

As a prelude to fund effort, Army and Navy planes yesterday roared Atlanta and suburbs to a spectacular air show.

12 Training Planes.

Twelve Navy training planes, led by Lieutenant Commander W. J. Harrigan, from the base at old Camp Gordon, flew over the downtown section at noon, then headed for the suburban areas, in perfect formation, they roared overhead, while thousands of paper "bombs" and leaflets, carrying the picture of a "chutist," hovered on house-tops, streets and roads.

Three huge Army bombers, from the Savannah field, joined the flight. The sound of their giant motors interrupted the routine duties of office workers and housewives. Over some of the suburban areas they gave a thrilling demonstration of air maneuvers.

Nation-Wide Broadcast.
The national campaign will be launched formally at 9:30 o'clock tonight with a nation-wide broadcast over all networks. Local leaders will go on the air at Atlanta stations immediately afterwards for brief announcements in connection with the campaign in this area.

Five hundred women, meeting at Davidson's Tearoom yesterday, completed plans for their part in the campaign. Mrs. Philip Graves, chairman of the women's division of USO, presided. Mrs. Francis Dwyer, division aide, outlined the purposes of the program. Inspirational talks were made by Major Scott and Dr. Herman L. Turner, chairman of the citizens' committee which planned the temporary service center at Peachtree and Walton streets.

Fighting, Says Berlin

NEW YORK, June 2.—(P)—The German radio reported today that a fierce battle has been raging for the last three days between Arab nationalists and British forces in the vicinity of Abouir, in Transjordan, a British Middle East mandate. NBC transcribed the broadcast.

The broadcast, ostensibly based in a dispatch from Beirut, Lebanon, added that a British staff car was attacked on the road leading from Amman, capital of Transjordan, to Jerusalem, in adjoining Palestine, and two British officers were captured.

I. C. C. Is Asked To Lower Rates On Livestock

Southern Producers Joined in Seeking Adjustment on Freight Costs

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(P)—The Agriculture Department today joined southern producers in asking the Interstate Commerce Commission for a downward adjustment of freight rates on livestock shipments from that territory.

A brief filed with the ICC on behalf of Secretary Wickard said the present rate structure was "an obstacle that is hindering progress of a well-balanced agricultural program in that region."

"The paramount objective of the agricultural program in the southern territory is to improve the economic status of the people and to preserve the land resources of the region through a properly balanced agriculture," the brief added.

"The inference that there is an endeavor on the part of the southern people to transplant the livestock from the west to the south is absolutely without foundation," the brief, declaring livestock pro-

College Holds 110th Exercises At LaGrange

Dr. Harvey Cox, of Emory, Delivers Graduation Address.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. LAGRANGE, Ga., June 2.—The one hundred and tenth annual commencement exercises of LaGrange College were brought to a close this morning when diplomas were awarded to 16 graduates by President H. T. Quillian, after the graduation address by Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory University.

The baccalaureate sermon was given Sunday in Dobbs auditorium by the Rev. E. G. Mackey, of Atlanta.

Alumnae from all sections of the state gathered Saturday for the annual reunions of alumnae day, when honor guests this year were the members of the class of 1928. Approximately half of the class attended the weekend reunion, with 13 of the 28 graduates present.

The program included an address by Granger Hansell, president of Emory University alumni, which was preceded by a business session. A feature of the program was the induction of the 1941 graduates into the association, with impressive ceremonies. The oldest class represented was the class of 1882, whose only two living members were present, Mrs. M. F. McClelland, of LaGrange, the former Alice Boykin, who has not missed a class reunion in 36 years, and Mrs. F. I. McDonald, of Atlanta, the former Lida Palmer, who has attended Alumnae Day reunions for the past 26 consecutive years.

Miss Lila Ward, of LaGrange, of the class of 1874, was unable to attend this year.

Graduates receiving diplomas today were Marie Adams, Mary Nell Bailey, Geraldine Deaver, Louise Hooks, Christine Skelton, Marjorie Turner, Edna Waldrop, Elizabeth Cunningham, Rachel Sorrow, Jane Weathers, Ruby McDow, Louise Jones, Polly Jordan, Sarah Twigg and Dorothy Pope.

175 Seniors End Peabody High Term at Griffin High Schools

Honor Students Were in Charge of Graduating Exercises.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. GRIFFIN, Ga., June 2.—Both of Griffin's schools held graduation exercises tonight. Griffin High had 75 members in the senior class and held exercises at the Griffin High auditorium. Spalding High school graduated approximately 100 seniors, the largest number in the school's history, in the school auditorium.

The annual senior class program was held Friday night. The commencement sermon was preached yesterday at the First Methodist church, by the Rev. Fulton C. Lytle, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here.

Griffin High honor students were in charge of the graduation exercises. They were Beckwith Archer, Roberta Beck, Mary Cumming, LaFrance Gaunt, Anne McLaurin, Hubert Sullins, Margie Turner, Mary Frances Watson, Sara Frances Whitley, Bobby Wheaton and Rochell Willis.

Senior class exercises for Spalding seniors were also held Friday night in the school auditorium. The Rev. Lytle also preached the commencement sermon to the Spalding seniors at 5:30 o'clock Sunday evening at the First Baptist church.

Spalding High honor graduates were Lonnie Mae Baxter, Charlotte Blanton, Elaine Foote, Vivian Goodson, Martha Head, Dorothy Kelley, Azalea Milner, Elbert Stapleton, Mildred Wesley and Bill Westmoreland.

Drouth Is Serious In Albany Area

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. ALBANY, Ga., June 2.—The drouth in this section is becoming alarming, and farmers say that proportion are receiving this week they are fearful of complete loss of many crops. Corn is beginning to deteriorate after standing the early stages of the dry spell exceedingly well. The last rain of any consequence to fall in Albany was April 30.

A few widely scattered spots received some rainfall Saturday and others Sunday, but none had enough to amount to what farmers call "a season." Most of the south-west Georgia territory has received no rainfall at all recently.

Sparta Schools Hold Closing Exercises

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. SPARTA, Ga., June 2.—Commencement activities of the Sparta schools came to a close here tonight with the graduating exercises. The invocation was by the Rev. W. H. Barrett; salutatory by Miss Harriette Wheeler. The address to the class was by Dr. R. K. White, and the valedictory was by Miss Charlotte Cohen. Diplomas were delivered to 60 graduates by C. W. Moran, president of the Hancock county board of education.

The five-month total, made public at the same time, also showed a big gain over the same period a year ago, being $59,446.08 this year against $52,268.61 for 1940.

Money order business, both for orders paid and those written, was the heaviest ever recorded in May, the postmaster said.

55,000 Poised To Repel March From Zamzam Into Tennessee

Army Practices Moving Huge Force Against Supposed Enemy.

WITH THE ARMY IN TENNESSEE, June 2.—(P)—Advance units of two divisions swept northward under cover of darkness tonight to begin the march of 55,000 troops into position for the four weeks of intensive battle practice among the hills and streams of middle Tennessee.

The three participating divisions were preparing to go on the march early tomorrow morning. This was the first movement of troops in the maneuvers. It was designed to test the ability of the Army to shuttle vast numbers of soldiers secretly over difficult terrain and throw them into action in a co-ordinated effort against advancing enemy troops.

Four-Fingered Drive.
The 30th Division from Fort Jackson, S. C., and the 5th Division from Fort Custer, Mich., prepared to move northward 12 miles in a four-fingered drive from their initial bivouac areas—at the extreme south end of the war games area.

They will take up battle positions—some units wending through 20 miles of country roadways—across the Duck river. The 27th Division from Fort McClellan, Ala., already camped on the northern banks of the narrow but deep stream, began fanning out tonight five miles northward to be in battle position when the 30th and 5th Divisions arrive at the concentration line tomorrow morning.

The 30th will form the right flank of the Seventh Army Corps and the 5th will guard the left flank and provide reserve forces for the Blue Army.

Imaginary Enemy.
Three divisions moved against an imaginary enemy of equal force, but represented only by one battalion of infantry controlled by umpires.

The "invading" army supposedly had rolled through the maritime provinces of Canada, through Maine and down to the Great Lakes along the St. Lawrence seaway. Then the Reds struck south, flanked the eastern defense army and split the nation's defense lines.

The drive south, and the movement through the seaway area follows the classic plan for splitting the industrial east from the agrarian west. Successful, it would break the nation's backbone—starve the east into submission and leave the west practically helpless.

Uhland F. Stewart Is Named President of State Body.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 2.—(P)—Uhland F. Stewart, of Savannah, was elected president of the Cotton Seed Crushers' Association of Georgia today.

Elkins G. Taylor, of Moultrie, retiring president, was elected chairman of the board. J. Campbell Jones, of Athens, was elected vice president. Other officers will be named by the board at a breakfast meeting tomorrow.

Walter S. Brown, of Athens, director of Georgia Extension Service, urged importance of vegetable oil as a valuable food product and a permanent market crop for Georgia farmers. Dr. W. D. Daniel, of Clemson, S. C., said hope, courage, good will and loyalty were needed more than ever today.

Thomasville Fire Destroys Building

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 2.—Fire completely destroyed the warehouse and storage department of the B. Y. Vann Transfer Company here yesterday, causing an estimated loss of between $10,000 and $12,000.

The fire is supposed to have been started by spontaneous combustion and quickly spread to a section in which were stored numbers of tanks of acetylene gas, causing loud explosions which were heard all over the city. In an adjoining warehouse, about 40 used cars were completely destroyed.

The articles stored were covered by insurance by the individuals owning them and the building, which was erected by Vann several years ago on Stevens street, was partially covered, he stated.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(P)—The Coast Guard awarded a contract today to Avondale Marine Ways Inc., Avondale, La., to build a cutter for patrolling the Mississippi river. The cutter will cost $167,450 and will be 113 feet and 9 inches long.

119 Survivors From Zamzam Reach Lisbon

Weary Passengers Rush for Clothing Stores; Apparel Lost.

LISBON, June 2.—(P)—Weary and bedraggled, 119 survivors of the Egyptian liner Zamzam, sunk by a German raider last April 17, arrived at suburban Sintra today, finishing a major step in their 18,000-mile odyssey.

Most planned to await passage to the United States, which may take a few weeks, while some of the 107 missionaries and their families hoped to continue to Africa.

Many of the passengers, who had travelled from the southern Atlantic to occupied France in a clothing store. Many had lost everything but the clothes they wore and, like David Scherman, Life Magazine photographer, "hadn't changed for 40 days."

Scherman had the prize hard-luck story. He obtained one of the war's major picture beats—the sinking of the Zamzam, life aboard the German ship and the arrival in occupied France—which the Germans allowed him to develop in Biarritz. Just before he left, however, they took them away.

Ink Spots To Star At City Auditorium

The Four Ink Spots, internationally famous Negro quartet, who played before a big crowd at the Shrine Mosque last night, will move over to the City Auditorium tonight for another evening of "jumping."

A special section has been reserved for white spectators. The famed quartet, whose singing in the "Great American Broadcast" is creating a sensation all over the country, is scheduled to "give out" tonight in typical Harlem fashion.

The singing foursome is accompanied by the Sunset Royal orchestra. The dance will begin at 8 o'clock.

Railroads Report Increased Activity

NEW YORK, June 2.—(P.) Activity in the market for railroad equipment in the past week has been the greatest for any similar period in recent years, "Railway Age" said today.

In conjunction with the nationwide plan for freight car buying, the nation's railroad railroads have inquired for 13,000 cars in the last week and have placed orders for more than 5,500.

Inquiries have appeared in the trade for 26 steam locomotives, with two steam switchers ordered, two diesel-electric engine builds and two diesel-electric engine builds have secured orders for 16 units.

Check Transactions Keep High Level in Past Week

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—Check transactions continued at a high level in the week ended May 28.

In 274 leading cities, the Federal Reserve Board reported today, the volume of bank debits was $10,109,000,000, compared with $10,166,000,000 in the preceding week and $8,825,000,000 in the corresponding week last year.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—Treasury Secretary Morgenthau said today it was too late to present the escape of Axis funds from the United States by a "freezing" order.

Morgenthau was asked at a press conference whether he still favored a general freezing order designed to prevent the removal of German, Italian, Japanese and all other foreign funds from the United States. He replied:

"The barn is empty."

He added that the Axis already had removed sizable funds in anticipation of such an order.

SEATTLE, June 2.—(AP)—Three West Coast aircraft manufacturers will pool their facilities for the production of a single type—the Boeing B17 bomber—the Boeing Aircraft Company announced tonight.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has nominated these Georgia postmasters:

Greensboro, Orian A. Moorhead; Lenox, Roy B. Allen.

Commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of banks rose last week for the fifth consecutive week.

The Federal Reserve Board said in 101 leading cities the gain amounted to $34,000,000 and brought the total of such loans in these cities to $5,673,000,000. The

The supreme court of the United States advised Atlanta attorneys yesterday that the case of a young Negro who was sentenced to eight months in prison because he refused to work on a Wilkinson county farm in payment of a $19 debt will be reviewed at its October session.

The Negro was convicted one year ago under an obscure Georgia statute which sets up misdemeanor punishment for any debtor who refuses to work out his obligation or pay back the money to his creditor.

back a debt or work it out according to agreement.

Attorneys for Taylor are Leonard Haas, of Atlanta, and T. T. Purdon, of Sparta. They appealed the case to the Georgia supreme court, and the court upheld the statute on the ground that the law called for "punishment for fraud" and did not affect peonage.

Definition of Peonage.

Peonage is described by the Georgia law as forcing a debtor to work for a creditor in payment of an obligation. Because Hard is alleged to have attempted to require the Negro to work out the payment of the $19, defense counsel is contending that Taylor's imprisonment was in violation of the antislavery or Thirteenth Amendment.

The two statutes under which Taylor was convicted were enacted in Georgia in 1903. Only a other southern state, Florida, has a similar statute.

High Court Review. The highest court in the land will review the case because of the defense counsel's contention that the peonage law is in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, which liberated the slaves, and is therefore unconstitutional.

According to the transcript of the trial, the Negro, Ira Taylor, lived on the farm of R. L. Hardie in Wilkinson county. Early last year Hardie swore out a warrant for Taylor's arrest and then lent the Negro $19 with which to pay out of jail. Taylor agreed to work for the white man, according to the testimony, in payment of the debt, and then refused because, he claimed, of illness.

Given Eight Months.
Upon prosecution by Hardie, the Negro was sentenced to eight months because of fraud. Lawyers argue that the Georgia statute says there is presumptive evidence

Whisky, Army Goods Seized in Home Here

Fulton Police Report Results of Raid on Schaffer Place.

In a surprise raid Sunday afternoon Fulton county police seized a quantity of non-tax-paid whisky and United States Army equipment in the combination store and home of Ben Schaffer, on Campbellton road, the officers announced yesterday.

Police led by Assistant Chief John Oliver said that among the equipment taken was an Army automatic pistol and ammunition, four Army shirts and an Army blanket and two shotguns. The whisky was in a dishpan.

It was recalled by officers that a raid on the same house in December of 1939 ended fatally for Aubrey Frazer, a young policeman who entered the store disguised as a customer in an effort to obtain evidence.

Frazer was shot and killed as he struggled with Mrs. Schaffer, who was sentenced to life imprisonment, but recently was granted a new trial by the supreme court.

New Watermelon Is Wilt-Resistant

The State Board of Regents yesterday announced the development of a wilt-resistant watermelon at the Georgia Experiment Station. Experiments to develop this variety suited to Georgia needs were begun about eight years ago. Hundreds of seed lots from foreign countries as well as many home varieties were tested.

Reports of losses from this disease have been increasing in recent years. It is described as a disease produced by a fungus which attacks the roots of watermelon vines and grows up into the water-conducting tubes of the stem. The blocking of these vessels shuts off the water supply to the vine, which will often wilt and die in one day.

Governor To Hold 75 'Clemency Day' Hearings

The state executive office announced that Governor Talmadge would hold "clemency day" hearings tomorrow on 75 cases recommended by the State Prison and Parole Commission.

This will be the Governor's regular biweekly hearing. Usually it is held on Tuesday, but the Capitol will be closed today in memory of Jefferson Davis' birthday and the hearing day was set up.

DeKalb To Set Up Mobile Health Unit

A mobile first aid unit for DeKalb county will be organized as part of a Red Cross first aid program being launched next week, it was announced yesterday by David Ansley, assistant solicitor, in charge of plans for the project.

The unit is being planned in connection with a series of first aid classes for the police, beginning probably Monday, it was said. A class has also been arranged at Druid Hills, and tentative plans are being made for others throughout the county, Ansley announced.

The truck unit, with first aid and medical supplies, will be available at a moment's notice in case of disaster. It is one of the first such projects in the state.

Valley Authority to give "further consideration" to a more equitable distribution among valley states of CCC camps assigned to it.

Representative Tarver, Democrat, Georgia, had complained that Georgia was being discriminated against and that favoritism had been shown toward Tennessee.

KNOW YOUR NAVY

AP Feature Service

SHIPS of the fleet provide America's first line of defense. Some are floating forts carrying heavy armament and armor. Others are light and built for speed, and some have a long cruising radius for scouting far at sea. Together they form a barricade hard to penetrate.

Here are America's ships:

- 16 IN SERVICE
BATTLESHIPS—These, the backbone of the fleet, have heavy armament and armor, long range guns and a long cruising radius. They are of slow speed because they mean to fight, and do not run away. Their displacement is 28,000 to 36,000 tons. Carry 1,500 to 1,800 men.
- 6 IN SERVICE
AIRCRAFT CARRIERS—These also have heavy armor and long cruising radius. Their principal duty is to act as a base for airplanes at sea. They displace 25,000 to 30,000 tons. Normal number of planes and men aboard is a Navy secret.
- 37 IN SERVICE
HEAVY CRUISERS—These are of 10,000 tons displacement. They have a long cruising radius, high speed, and mount 8-inch guns. Principal job is to scout the enemy. Carry 800 to 900 men.
- LIGHT CRUISERS—These are high speed vessels of 10,000 tons or less, mounting 6-inch guns. They are scouting duty, and are the largest U. S. ships carrying torpedoes. Normal complement is 500 to 900 men.

THE GUMPS

AM—HERE COMES OLD WISE GUY, ARTIE WALLACE—WATCH ME GET A RISE OUT OF HIM—

YOU KNOW THE STORY I TIPPED YOU ABOUT? SHE MADE ME CLOSE TO $4,000 IN THE PAST MONTH—AND IT'S STILL CLIMBING—BUT DON'T FEEL BAD, PAL—

YOU'RE NOT THE ONLY GUY THAT BUMPED INTO MISFORTUNE DURING PROSPERITY—WELL, SO LONG, SPORT—YOU'D BETTER WAKE UP AND GET MOVING BEFORE A SPIDER WINDS A WEB AROUND YOUR LEGS AND TRIPS YOU——AND HE LAUGHED AT ME!

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE

THAT WAS ODD—DR. THERON ASKING IF BILL HAD EVER HAD A BAD BUMP WHEN HE WAS A LITTLE BOY—

YES—ID ALMOST FORGOTTEN ABOUT IT MYSELF—

SO HAD I, BESS—IT WAS JUST A BAD BRUISE—BUT HOW DO YOU SUPPOSE DR. THERON EVER FOUND OUT ABOUT IT?

WHY, BERT, I CAN'T IMAGINE—IT WAS QUITE A BAD BUMP AT THE TIME, OF COURSE—

BUT BILL WAS ONLY A BABY—IT WAS YEARS AGO—HE GOT OVER IT—HA! HA! I REMEMBER YOU SAID WE SHOULD CALL A DOCTOR—

WELL, BILL CRIED SO—AND THEN HE WAS SO DROWSY FOR DAYS—DON'T YOU REMEMBER?

OH, BILL WAS TOO MUCH OF A LITTLE MAN TO LET A WHACK ON THE HEAD WITH A FLAT IRON BOTHER HIM—

OH, I SUPPOSE IT WAS ALL RIGHT—HE DID GET OVER IT—BUT I STILL REMEMBER HOW IT WORRIED ME, AT THE TIME—

MOON MULLINS

NOW, MAMIE, IF THE DOORBELL RINGS TO-NIGHT WE MUST BE ON OUR TOES AND WASTE NO TIME IN ANSWERING IT.

ID GIVE A PARTY TO KNOW WHO HER MYSTERY MAN IS, MYSELF—OH!

IT WAS ME, MAMIE—I WAS JUST CHECKING UP TO SEE IF YOU WERE ON THE JOB

BAM! BAM! BAM!

OH, THAT WOMAN! THEY COULD KNOW THE HOUSE DOWN AND SHE WOULDN'T WAKE UP

WELL, YOU NEEDN'T GET SO HUFFY, LADY P! YOU CHECKED UP ON ME AND I WAS JUST CHECKIN' UP ON YOU!

DICK TRACY

THIS IS A HORRIBLE SHOCK, CONSTABLE, AND I WOULDN'T THINK OF IMPOSING ON YOUR HOUSEHOLD UNDER SUCH CONDITIONS!

IT'S NO IMPOSITION, MR. TRACY, PLEASE STAY!

JUST GIVE ME PERMISSION TO WORK WITH YOUR MEN ON THIS CASE TILL THE FIEND IS CAUGHT. I'LL PUT UP AT A HOTEL DOWNTOWN!

BY ALL MEANS, MR. TRACY, BUT STAY HERE IN OUR HOUSE!

WELL, THERE'S THE CONSTABLE'S HOUSE!

YEAH, NOW THE QUESTION IS WHICH ROOM WOULD THE DIARY BE IN?

WE'LL DRIVE PAST THE PLACE A FEW TIMES. WE DON'T WANT TO DO ANYTHING TILL DARK, ANYWAY!

THAT'S RIGHT!

JANE ARDEN—By Monte Barrett and Russell Ross

YES, I'M THE POSTMASTER HERE—

HERE ARE MY CREDENTIALS—WE'RE TRYING TO TUP A SECRET AGENT WHO IS INTERFERING WITH OUR DEFENSE INDUSTRIES—

YOU CAN COUNT ON ME TO HELP ANYWAY I CAN!

ARE THERE ANY MAIL BOXES HERE—OR ARE ALL LETTERS MAILED HERE AT THE POST OFFICE?

GOOD—HERE'S A LIST OF MEN WHO ARE GOING TO RECEIVE LETTERS FROM HERE—I THINK THEY'LL ALL BE MAILED AT ONCE—

YOUR JOB IS TO WATCH THE MAIL BOX AND TIP ME OFF THE INSTANT THAT HAPPENS!

SMITTY

TO FORGET MY BUSINESS WORRIES, THE DOCTOR HAS ORDERED ME TO BE LIKE A KID AGAIN, AND DO EVERYTHING THAT SMITTY DOES—

IT'S SUPPOSED TO BE THE BEST WAY TO GET MY MIND OFF BUSINESS, BUT IT DOES SEEM RATHER SILLY—

... SILLY?

IT'S CRAZY!

TIRELESS TED

...he wears 'em down!

NEVER SAW SUCH BOUNCE! DON'T YOU EVER SLOW DOWN? AND YOU USED TO BE SUCH A RUN-DOWN, LISTLESS KID, TOO. HOW COME?

I WAS TOLD I HAD A VITAMIN B COMPLEX DEFICIENCY

YOU HAD WHAT?

DON'T SHOUT! IT JUST MEANS A SHORTAGE OF THOSE WONDERFUL VITAMINS FOUND SO ABUNDANTLY IN YEAST AND RAW LIVER

YEAST? REGULAR GROCERY-STORE YEAST? FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST?

I'M NOT KIDDING! FLEISCHMANN'S IS CHEAP RICH IN THE VITAMIN B COMPLEX, AND YOU CAN'T LOOK OR FEEL YOUR BEST WITHOUT THOSE VITAMINS

FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST IS ONE OF THE RICHEST NATURAL SOURCES OF THE AMAZING VITAMIN B COMPLEX. AND I TAKE IT THE NEW TASTY WAY...IN TOMATO JUICE!

MASH a cold cake of Fleischmann's Yeast in a dry glass with a fork, then add a little tomato juice, milk, or water and STIR till blended... then fill glass, stir again, and DRINK... twice a day. It's especially delicious in tomato juice.

Ladies: If you bake at home use this same Fleischmann's Fresh Yeast...the household favorite of four generations.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21 and April 19 (ARIES)—Before 11:05 a. m. may be a slow period and you may find it difficult to keep after going. The remainder of the day seems filled with favorable influences, making it an auspicious period to seek favors, consultations, for dealings with older people, financial transactions, legal affairs and travel.

April 20 and May 20 (TAURUS)—Previous to 2:31 p. m., you should rely on the advice or assistance of very well informed and stable people, and do not enter into anything that has uncertainties. Between 2:30 p. m. and 4:44 p. m. does not especially favor dealings with those in authority or who hold executive positions. The remainder of the day favors communications, literary efforts, interviews.

May 21 and June 20 (GEMINI)—The most important time of the day for taking important action along all lines appears to be after 1:35 p. m. An excellent period for constructive work in matters of finances, personal advancement, constructive planning for future prospects and interviewing or consulting people in important positions.

June 21 and July 22 (CANCER)—The entire day is a time to be cautious. The feeling of people around you may be extremely sensitive, or you may meet chilly receptions, which is not conducive towards getting good results. Dealings with women or work pertaining to the needs of women bring some bright spots during the day.

July 23 and August 22 (LEO)—Before 12:31 p. m., new beginnings may have a tendency to meet with disfavor. At this time others may not be sympathetic, or you will find much pessimism. Between 12:31 p. m. and 4:37 p. m. favors work that requires activity or strenuousness. After 4:37 p. m. favors routine activities.

August 23 and September 22 (VIRGO)—During the entire day and until 10:11 p. m. does not especially

Negro Is Given Life Term in Woman's Death

Mercy Recommended by Jury in Slaying of Mrs. Bosworth.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. AMERICUS, Ga., June 2.—A guilty verdict with recommendation of mercy was returned here today against Ollie Leverette, a Negro woman tried on a charge of murdering Mrs. Mary Bosworth, aged white woman, who died allegedly from the effects of a beating given her several days before by the Negro woman.

The Leverette woman was nursing Mrs. Bosworth at the time and testimony given at the trial by the attending physician was to the effect that evidence showed that a stick of wood was the instrument of death.

Immediately following the jury's verdict, Judge Chester Byars, presiding over court in the place of Judge W. M. Harper, who is ill, sentenced the woman to serve the remainder of her life in prison. Solicitor General E. L. Forrester represented the state. The beating was inflicted last February 6, the prosecutor said, adding that evidence indicated the Negro woman at the time was in a "drunken frenzy."

HERE'S A REAL TURTLE—He's large enough for little George and Barbara Murdock to practice dancing on his back. And he'll make more soup than all the Bankhead district can eat. This little turtle—but he isn't so little—touches the scales at 71 pounds and that's a lot of turtle. He was wandering around the Chattahoochee Sunday afternoon near Douglasville and Ralph Thompson shot him. Then George Murdock pulled the huge body out of the water, brought him to Atlanta, had him frozen, and then his daughter practiced her dancing. She said she didn't mind playing with a corpse—thought it good fun. But that was yesterday at the Murdock home, 830 Bankhead highway. Today it's another story. This old tortoise is now brewed into plates and plates of soup.

Beaten by Pair, W. C. Reams Dies of Injuries

Ride Rob Bandits Take $3, Leave Atlanta on Tracks.

W. C. Reams, about 40, of 401 Atlanta avenue, S. E., died yesterday at Grady hospital from injuries received Saturday night when attacked by a pair of ride-rob bandits who took $3 from him. Reams told investigating detectives he was forced into a car while walking on Marietta street and taken to Maddox park. After the bandits had taken his change, he related, they beat him brutally. Almost unconscious and unable to walk, the victim was taken back to Marietta street and left on railroad tracks in the rear of the Standard Oil Company, at 746 Marietta street, N. W.

L. B. Henry, night watchman for the oil concern, found Reams Sunday morning. He was admitted to Grady with several fractured ribs, multiple body bruises and internal injuries.

The body was held at the hospital morgue pending funeral arrangements.

Eire Votes Acceptance Of Ship Purchase Offer

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—The Eire government today accepted President Roosevelt's offer to permit the purchase of two cargo ships and a Red Cross gift of $500,000 of supplies for refugees in Eire.

Robert Brennan, the Irish minister, said his government was disappointed at the decision of the United States not to make defense supplies available, asserting that "if we had the materials the danger of invasion would be less."

Mercer Alumni Name Jenkins As President

Head of GMA at Milledgeville Elected at Macon.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 2.—Colonel J. H. Jenkins, head of the Georgia Military College, today was named president of the Mercer University Alumni association, when that organization met in Macon.

Colonel Jenkins, long prominent in alumni affairs, was graduated from Mercer in 1925. For several summers he was a member of the university's teaching staff. As superintendent of Vienna school, he brought national recognition to Georgia when he coached the famous "wonder five" basketball team of Vienna, a team that consistently represented Georgia at the national tournament in Chicago.

As president of G. M. C. he headed an expansion program that has brought four new buildings to the campus.

Other officers elected at the Macon meeting today are: Judge Eugene Cook, of Wrightsville, vice president, and Dr. Josiah Crutcher, of Macon, secretary.

Brown Named President Of Hogansville Yards

HOGANSVILLE, Ga., June 2.—Joe Brown was elected president of the West Georgia Farmers' Cooperative Association at a meeting of the directors Friday night. Other officers elected are John R. Hines, vice president; William P. Arnold, secretary and treasurer; J. Crawford Ware, assistant secretary.

For the past two years the association has operated the Hogansville stock yards and during this time $45,000 worth of live stock, mainly local raised cattle, has been marketed through the organization.

The monthly sale of stock will be held tomorrow, a number of live stock having been listed, it is stated.

Rites Held For Victim Of Phenix City Fire

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. COLUMBUS, Ga., June 2.—Services were held Saturday in the Phenix City First Baptist church for William Bain, 52-year-old invalid, who was burned to death at his home early Saturday morning. His sister, Mrs. Christine Wright, and her grandson, Owne L. Jackson, 12, narrowly escaped death when the home burned.

Mr. Bain was the son of the late John Bain, prominent Phenix City resident.

Valdosta Named As Site for Air Corps School

546-Acre Tract To Be Used as U. S. Flying Unit.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Constitution Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, June 2.—War Department officials announced today that Valdosta has been selected as a site for an air corps advance flying school.

The site comprises approximately 546 acres about 10 miles northwest of Valdosta adjacent to the 12,000-acre soil conservation project in Lowndes and Lanier counties, now administered by the Department of Agriculture.

The Agricultural Department notified the War Department there would be no objection to the use of the soil conservation project in connection with the air corps base.

A program of temporary construction will be started as soon as possible, War Department officials said in announcing selection of the Valdosta site.

Sanford Calls For British Aid In Florida Talk

Georgia Chancellor Terms Education Great Defense Factor.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., June 2.—(AP)—Termeing education "the greatest factor in our national defense," Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System of Georgia, called for full aid to Britain tonight in his commencement address to the University of Florida graduating class.

"If peace means nothing more than keeping out of war," he declared, "then we may expect of life nothing more than a series of mud-plasters to reduce surface inflammation with no real diagnosis of the disease, or to reach the source of infection. This condition I for one cannot contemplate as tolerable in the world in which we live."

He declared "the sure defense is to send England today and tomorrow all the supplies we can mobilize; send these supplies in British ships, in American ships, in seized ships."

Before a crowd of several thousand in the open air exercises in Florida Field stadium, Dr. John Tigert conferred degrees upon 364 graduates. Two honorary degrees also were announced.

Funeral plans will be announced by A. S. Turner.

Students Stage Demonstration At Statesboro

Another Protest Made on Failure of Pittman's Reappointment.

STATESBORO, Ga., June 2.—(AP)—Georgia Teachers' College students staged another demonstration today in protest against failure of the board of regents to re-appoint Marvin S. Pittman as president of the school.

The students paraded through the business section carrying banners reading "We Want Pittman" and "Keep Politics Out of the School." The procession was led by the college band.

Demonstrations against the regents' action were started here Friday night by groups of students. When classes convened Saturday morning a large number of the students failed to attend and paraded through town circulating petitions asking the board to reconsider its action.

They sent Governor Talmadge a resolution stating college presidents "should be elected on merit rather than on political patronage."

Miss Sihler and Mr. Branch Announce Bridal Personnel

LITHFIELD, Ill., June 2.—Important among today's announcements are the plans for the forthcoming marriage of lovely Miss Mary Elizabeth Sihler, of this city, and James Alexander Branch Jr., of Atlanta, Ga. The wedding of the prominent couple, which will take place at a late afternoon ceremony on June 10, will assemble a fashionable gathering from over the country.

Rev. Michael J. O'Mullane will read the marriage service at 4:30 o'clock at the St. Aloysius church in this city. A musical program will be presented prior to the ceremony by Guy Miller, organist.

Serving as ushers will be Dr. C. H. Sihler, the bride-elect's uncle, and Bert McWilliams, both of this city, and Robert C. Crowe, of Coral Gables, Fla., the bride-to-be's brother.

Walter Gordon Roper Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., will act as best man for Mr. Branch, and Mitchell Campbell King Jr., also of Atlanta, will be the groomsmen.

Miss Sarah Rawson Smith, of Atlanta, Ga., will be Miss Sihler's maid of honor and Mrs. Robert C. Crowe, of Coral Gables, Fla., will be her sister's matron of honor. Dr. George Albert Sihler Jr. will give his pretty young daughter in marriage.

Guests will assemble at the Sihler residence on Franklin avenue following the ceremony for a reception at which Dr. and Mrs. Sihler will entertain for members of the Sihler-Branch wedding personnel and out-of-town guests.

Later in the evening Mr. Branch and his bride will leave for a wedding trip, at the conclusion of which they will reside in Atlanta, where they will become attractive additions to the married contingent.

Helen McClain's Drawing Seen in Popular Magazine

By SALLY FORTH.

IT IS MOST UNUSUAL for a 12-year-old artist to gain sufficient recognition to have one of her drawings published in a nationally known magazine. But so talented is Helen McClain, attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McClain, that she apparently encountered no difficulty in having one of her drawings accepted for reproduction by Country Life. On the last page of the April issue of the magazine, under the caption "Young Sportsman," is pictured Helen's drawing of a horse running, his mane flying in the wind—a sketch notable for its action. Sally has heard so much admiring comment about it that she was inspired to pen this account of its gifted creator.

"Young Sportsman," you know, is a page of Country Life devoted to the young in age, and is edited by Betty Babcock. On specialty as an art subject, as catch questions and answers of interest to the younger set.

Although Helen is now 12, she was only 11 when she drew and submitted the drawing to Country Life. She has had only a very few lessons in art, but all who have seen examples of her work agree that she possesses unusual talent. The horse is her specialty as an art subject, as well as her favorite animal.

She recently received her diploma from the Lovett School, and plans to enter Washington Seminary in the fall, where her charm of manner is certain to assure for her a warm welcome among her classmates.

ANOTHER prospective debutante looms brightly on the social horizon is Foster Adair, who returns today from Lynchburg, Va., where she has been a popular student at Randolph-Macon College. Sally, you recall, announced a number of deb-to-be last Sunday.

Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Adair, and a sister of Roline Adair, who made her formal bow as a popular member of the 1937-38 Debutante Club, is certain to be among the most feted buds of next season should she decide definitely to join deb ranks.

Possessing dark eyes and black hair, the belle is distinctive for her exotic type of beauty. Her arrival today is keenly anticipated by her many friends, a number of whom look wedding of his cousin, Lieutenant Daniel Johnson V, and the former Dot Garland.

The youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Collins Matthews, postponed his departure for Camp Transylvania in Brevard, N. C., especially to participate in his cousin's wedding Sunday, and Sally hears that he took no "half-measures" in performing his duty. He kept the ring, paid the minister, and carried out with both poise and efficiency every task assigned to a best man.

With such a redeeming record, he will probably be in great demand as a wedding attendant!

THE FORMER Jane Bray, of Marietta, received her diamond wedding ring on the same evening that her bridegroom, Lemon Awtrey Jr., received his diploma from the University of Georgia! You see, the popular young couple have been married since May 11!

Although friends of Jane and Lemon have expected the announcement of their betrothal to be made any day, they did not suspect the pair's marriage. The bride is the Marietta girl whom Sally rumored engaged recently as the "sweetheart of a Sigma Chi," so it was fitting that her husband presented her the exquisite wedding ring at the Sigma Chi fraternity house in Athens, following Saturday evening's graduation exercises.

Naturally, the chapter house was in an uproar over the news, and the newlyweds were almost overcome with the hearty congratulations.

For Miss Philbin And Robert Ellis

Miss Anne Lawson Philbin will be guest of honor today at the shower and tea at which Mrs. Cecil Royer will be hostess at 4 o'clock at her home on Nancy Creek road. Miss Philbin has just returned from her home in New York, where she was extensively feted prior to her marriage on Saturday to Robert Ryland Ellis Jr.

Miss Philbin is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ellyson Robinson in Brookwood Hills, her marriage to take place at their home.

On Friday evening following the wedding rehearsal, the bride-elect and her fiancé will be honored by Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, who will entertain at their home.

REV. H. E. RUSSELL, who performed the marriage service for Ida McGriff and Charles Wade Johnson on Sunday, stated that the couple's best man, Daniel Matthews, was the youngest, best man he had ever dealt with! You see, Daniel is only 11 years old, but weddings are nothing new to him, for only last December he was a groomsmen in the Graduating Class To Be Honored.

The June graduating class of Girls' High school will be the guests of the P.-T. A. at the tea to be held Saturday at the Women's Club from 3-6 o'clock.

The orchestra from the school, under the direction of Mrs. Reynolds Clark, will furnish the music. Mrs. J. H. Alexander, hospitality chairman, and Mrs. Ray Spence, co-chairman, are in charge of the arrangements.

The guests will be received by the officers of the executive committee, Mesdames R. S. Ramsey, M. G. Perry, M. N. Stallings, Frank Ray, A. D. Tucker, Gloer Hailley, R. P. Seitzinger and S. H. Griffin.

Dr. Young Speaks To Foster Mothers.

Dr. W. W. Young, psychiatrist, told the foster mothers of the Child Welfare Association at their recent luncheon that the modern parent is much too self-conscious about children's behavior, and one of the biggest jobs the psychiatrist has is desensitizing parents, allaying their fears and anxieties.

Mrs. Frank Neely, hostess to the foster mothers, told them they were the real players in the game sponsored by the association, while the board of directors were the onlookers and the social workers, the coaches.

A program prepared on the basis of child care and training was planned by the Foster Mothers' Club for the coming year.

MRS. LEMON AWTREY JR.

Miss Jane Bray's Marriage To Mr. Awtrey Announced

MARIETTA, Ga., June 2.—Mrs. C. L. Bray announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Jane Carol Bray, to Lemon Merrill Awtrey Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lemon Awtrey, of Acworth, Rev. M. O. Sommers read the marriage lines at his home May 11 in the presence of close friends.

The bride is the only child of Mrs. Bray and the late Mr. Bray. Her maternal grandparents are the late Alice Barrett Gable and W. B. Gable, of Cobb county. Her mother is the former Miss Jennie Mai Gable. She graduated from Marietta High school as valedictorian and was editor-in-chief of the school paper, "The Pitchfork."

She is a former officer of the Atlanta chapter of Zeonox sorority.

Mr. Awtrey graduated from Acworth High school and was a member of the graduating class of the University of Georgia on May 31. He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. At present he is associated in business with his father in Acworth.

The couple will reside in Marietta, where a number of parties are being planned to honor the bride.

Miss Abbott Weds Hugh G. Roberts.

MARIETTA, Ga., June 2.—Miss Bunny Abbott, daughter of Mrs. Joe Abbott, became the bride on Thursday of Hugh Griffin Roberts, of Cartersville, at an al fresco ceremony performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Fowler, on Church street, Rev. Nath Thompson, of Cedartown, uncle of the bride, read the marriage lines before an altar of natural greenery which was beautified with tall baskets of white larkspur and Madonna lilies.

Miss Lucy Bailey presented the nuptial music.

Henry Parris, of Cartersville, was best man and Miss Tilly Trezevant, of Cartersville, was maid of honor. The bride was given in marriage by her kinsman, John R. Fowler. She wore an afternoon gown of white marquisette and a fingertip veil. Her flowers were bride's roses and valley lilies.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Fowler entertained at a reception for the immediate families and out-of-town guests.

After a honeymoon in the mountains of North Carolina and Georgia, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts will reside at Hotel Braban in Cartersville.

Chesnut-MacNiell Wedding Performed.

The marriage of Miss Caroline Chesnut and Dr. Charles A. MacNiell, of Boston, Mass., and Atlanta, was solemnized May 24 in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chesnut. Only the immediate families and close friends were present. Dr. S. A. Timpler officiated.

Music was presented by Miss Mary Lou Bollinger, pianist, and M. A. Nichols, uncle of the groom, soloist.

The bride wore a dress of powder blue sheer crepe with a pleated waist-length train. Her hat was the same shade with a shoulder-length veil. She wore white accessories and carried white roses with valley lilies.

An informal reception followed. The house was decorated throughout with pastel shades of spring flowers. The dining table was overlaid with a lace cloth and decorated with a three-tiered wedding cake.

Later in the evening the couple left for a wedding trip through Florida. On their return the couple will reside in Atlanta.

For Bridal Couple.

Mrs. H. H. Hendricks was hostess at her home on West Shadown avenue at a surprise kitchen shower recently in honor of Miss Gladys Hendricks, who will become the bride of William F. Collins on June 2. The guests were: Mesdames DeAlva Cummins, Marjorie Garrett, Alice and Elizabeth Sutton, Sybil Thornton, Frances Hendricks, Florence Foster, and Mesdames D. E. Wilson, W. H. Rogers, M. M. Coppenger, Hubert L. Blackwell, V. M. Clifton and T. J. Russell.

The Bethany class of Haygood Memorial church entertained at an outing at Eaves Farm for Miss Hendricks and her fiancé and for Miss DeAlva Cummins and her fiancé, Howard Mathews, recently.

Miss Nelle Abrams Weds Mr. Primm

Of interest to a wide circle of friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Nelle Read Abrams and John Kenton Primm, son of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Clarence J. Primm, which took place Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Read Abrams, on Peachtree road. Rev. Theodore Morrison officiated in the presence of the families and a group of friends.

The lovely bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gown in an old ivory triple sheer ensemble, with which she wore brown and white accessories and a shoulder cluster of orchids.

Mrs. Abrams chose for her daughter's wedding a model of blue triple sheer with a shoulder bouquet of talisman roses. Mrs. Primm, the groom's mother, was attired in a costume of black lace and her flowers were talisman roses.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Abrams entertained at a reception at the home of Mrs. C. E. Hudson, of Charlotte, N. C., assisted her parents in entertaining.

Later in the evening the couple left for wedding trip, the bride traveling in a powder blue coat suit. Upon their return they will reside in Knoxville, Tenn.

Among the out-of-town guests present at the wedding were Mrs. Arthur W. Solomon, of Savannah, Mrs. Clarence J. Primm, of Oak Park, Ill.; Mrs. Charles E. Hudson, of Charlotte, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. E. Clarke, of Jacksonville, Fla.; and Mrs. L. T. Mayer, of Savannah.

Miss Roline Adair Compliments Trio.

An enjoyable affair of yesterday afternoon was the badminton party given by Miss Roline Adair, city badminton champion among feminine ranks. The affair took place at her home on Peachtree road and honored Mesdames Madge and Jane McCrady, of Charleston, S. C., who return to their home today after having spent a week as guests of Miss Alice Davis.

Sharing honors was attractive Miss Betty Stoutenberg, who with her parents recently moved to this city.

Past Pocahontas Club.

Jinx Poindexter Faces Vols in Third Game of Series Tonight

All in The Game
BY JACK TROY

A Real Feat NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 2.—It would take a shark in higher mathematics to figure the odds against any pitcher holding a one-run lead in Sulphur Dell more than once.

That's why one can't say so much for Ed Heusser. He is making a habit of eating those Vols, 3 to 2, in their own bandbox.

Early in April, Heusser pitched against Nashville in the second game of the double-header and he was masterful as he again accepted one-run lead and held it. This time he stopped the Vols old just after they had set a new league home run record for a team in a single game, blasting eight off Cortes and lowak.

They didn't hit any homers off Heusser in the second game. It was just the other way around. Lester Burge tapped Cousin George Jeffcoat for a round trip ticket with one.

We'll take up the case of Cousin George in just a moment. Meanwhile, a word or two more about Ed Heusser, who already has won nine games with the season less than two months old.

Heusser came to the Crackers in a trade for Luman Harris. Connie Mack liked Harris and Earl Mann liked Heusser. Fair enough. The deal has been mutually beneficial. Harris also is going good for the Athletics.

But Harris probably wouldn't have gone so well for the Crackers. He always did have to struggle to win as many as a dozen games in the Southern League. With Heusser it is just the opposite. He's a smooth article on a pitcher's mound.

And with any luck he'll win 20 games or more.

Rule Is Ended The mastery of George Jeffcoat over the Crackers definitely is a thing of the past. In fact, Jeffcoat can't pitch effectively against anybody now. He just can't get anybody out.

Of course, the Crackers didn't exactly murder him in winning the second game of the double-header, but they did win and make it three in a row over Jeffcoat. And the odds are very high against him ever beating Atlanta again.

The Crackers themselves are confident he'll never last full ball game against them. And they wonder if he will be much better against the other teams. They have their own reasons for thinking he won't have much of a season.

Everything was all right when Jeffcoat could beat Atlanta. But when that ended it was just about the same as a fighter throwing his best punches and finding his opponent wading right on in.

Jeffcoat's lost his confidence, and with it has gone a lot of his stuff. He's just another guy named George to the Atlanta Crackers.

At Last—An Answer For years sports-minded people have been wondering where Nashville fans go on Saturday afternoons, namuch as they aren't often to be found at baseball or football games.

I don't know where they go, but at last I've discovered where they WILL go.

There was a steeplechase here recently and, believe it because it's true, 40,000 Nashvillians turned out. No, sir, there is no accounting for tastes.

But before one becomes too critical, just keep in mind that the steeplechase was free.

Seriously, Nashville fandom is unpredictable. There were 7,500 people out for opening day. This was disappointing in view of the Vols having won a pennant for the first time in 24 years.

Then, Sunday, with Atlanta seven and one-half games ahead, only 12 customers shy of 10,000 paid to see the Vols and Crackers play. Maybe it will pay the Vols to remain in the role of underdog.

Or does everybody just naturally like to see a champion like Atlanta?

Twomey To Wed The old moose hunter is going to take unto himself a bride, and now, after all these years, the announcement lets the cat out of the bag, so to speak.

We always thought that big Twomey's first name was Ted. Everybody call him Ted, anyway.

But formally the former demon Notre Dame tackle and ex-Georgia line coach is named Mr. Timothy Aloysius Twomey. Begorra, and it's no wonder he could play the line so well.

Big, likeable Ted and Margaret Caroline Farrell will middle-aisle it, as the society columnists put it, on Saturday morning, the twenty-first of June, at 11 o'clock, in St. Peter's Catholic church at Columbia, S. C.

Ted—that is, Timothy Aloysius—has been line coach of South Carolina ever since leaving Georgia with Rex Enright, who is head coach. They hold the loyalty and esteem of Gamecock followers.

Hillbilly Girl Wrestler Coming Elviry Snodgrass To Be at Auditorium

Out of the Smoky mountains of Tennessee has come a girl hillbilly wrestler who is all the rage these days in the groan and grunt profession.

Power Chiefs Call Conference To Aid Defense

Chairman of Federal Commission To Meet Leaders Here.

First in a series of special conferences on technical matters relative to the critical power shortage in the southeast caused by the drouth will be held tomorrow morning at the Ansley hotel.

Leland Olds, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, will meet with officials of the Georgia Power Company, including Preston Arkwright, president; W. E. Mitchell, vice president and general manager; Charles A. Collier, vice president in charge of sales; J. M. Oliver, operating manager; and E. A. Yates, member of the board of the Commonwealth & Southern.

It was said yesterday the discussions will center principally around technical subjects. Power company engineers have been gathering data on rainfall and water storage in preparation for the conference, aimed mainly at determining methods of insuring delivery of power to defense industries.

Buses Save Power.

The power company announced that due to the save-kilowatt program, 20 new buses which have just been delivered will be placed in service within the next few days during the non-rush hours on the Buckhead, Oglethorpe, East Point and College Park lines now served by trackless trolleys.

In addition, the power company announced three streetcar lines will be discontinued and a bus line operated in their stead, effective between June 15 and 22. The streetcar lines affected are Grant Street-Grant Park, Cherokee-Grant Park and East Fair-Grant Park.

The new buses will parade through downtown Atlanta today, leaving the city hall at 12:45 o'clock, going out Whitehall, Peachtree, North avenue and West Peachtree.

In the parade will be Arkwright,

Mayor LeCraw, and members of the traffic board and traffic engineers. Following the parade, Arkwright will be host to those participating at a luncheon at the Henry Grady hotel.

Beer Signs Dinned.

The Independent Beer Distributors' Association of Georgia sent letters to all retailers in Atlanta and vicinity requesting them to refrain from lighting or burning any neon or electrical signs containing the name of any brewer or the words "beer and ale." The letter was signed by Joseph J. Fine, secretary and general counsel.

The executive board of the Atlanta Federation of Trades adopted a resolution urging "immediate and voluntary reduction of use of electricity in every non-essential" and "full and complete co-operation in the urgent situation by every worker, whether an affiliate or not."

City council yesterday voted to discontinue 1,200 whiteway lights. Power company that workmen in the granite quarries at Elberton had voted to reduce their working hours by a third in order to save power.

Louisville Citizens Are Conserving Power.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. LOUISVILLE, Ga., June 2.—Local business houses and citizens generally are co-operating with the Georgia Power Company, which supplies this community with electricity, in conserving as much power as possible at this time. Signs and some of the street lights will be cut out for the time being. R. S. Barnes, local manager of the Power company, estimates that a 20 per cent saving will be accomplished here with the local citizens co-operating.

Some Hancock Crops Are Holding Up Well.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. SPARTA, Ga., Hancock county farmers report their cotton crop in very good condition despite the longest drouth for this time of the year they have ever known. The corn is also holding up well.

Truck crops are a failure in most places and gardeners will be forced to start over when it does begin raining.

Hadley Retires After 40 Years Telling Weather

Public Takes Bureau More Seriously, Veteran 'Prophet' Says.

"The public used to take the weather bureau as a joke. But now they take us quite seriously—and demand the latest, up-to-the-minute forecasts," Owen M. Hadley, for 40 years a weatherman, said yesterday as he retired from active duty.

"It just goes to show you the change in attitude over the years, and how much the science of forecasting has improved," he added. Hadley, who lives at 1762 Boulevard drive, N. E., was appointed to the Jacksonville office in 1901, following a career as a school teacher and principal in Indiana and Florida.

He served in various other cities, including Montgomery, St. Louis and Galveston, and came to the Atlanta office in 1933. He served as junior meteorologist here.

Southern Descent.

A native of Indiana, Hadley is proud of the fact that his paternal grandparents came from North Carolina and Tennessee. He said he had always been interested in natural sciences, and that meteorology appealed strongly to him, so that when he had an opportunity to take an examination for a Weather Bureau post he took it.

"I was in Galveston during the hurricane of 1915, and in St. Louis during the Mississippi flood of 1904. They were exciting days. But now I have reached retirement age, I'm going to take a vacation and then settle down to my hobbies—gardening and collecting old books."

Acquires 'McGuffey.'

"Just recently, I acquired a McGuffey Fifth Reader. I like books on history, philosophy and psychology."

Hadley is married and has a daughter and two sons, both sons being in the United States Forest Service.

"It's a far cry from the old days of forecasting, to the present when a little balloon goes 15 to 20 miles into the stratosphere and radios its message to the ground as it goes up. Yes, indeed, things have improved."

BIGGERS TO SPEAK.

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 2.—(P) George C. Biggers, general manager of the Atlanta Journal, will speak on freedom of the press at the Rotary Club meeting here Wednesday.

GOODBYE, OLD PAL!—Owen M. Hadley, a weatherman for 40 years, kissed an old friend—an anemometer, or wind gauge—goodbye yesterday as he retired from service. He'll take a vacation and then settle down to his hobbies of gardening and book collecting. Hadley was in the Atlanta office for the past 10 years.

Tobacco Hurt By Drouth in South Georgia

Lowndes Crop Reported as 'Spotted' and Quality Damaged.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

VALDOSTA, Ga., June 2.—Tobacco plants in Lowndes county are not doing so well because of the dry weather, and the situation has become somewhat alarming. County Agent R. E. Miller reports the tobacco crop is "spotted."

A small section of the county had a good rain a week ago which brought out the plants considerably, but the greater portion of the county remains dry. Miller says that rains now will bring out the tobacco, to a large extent, but that the quality will be seriously damaged.

102 Seniors To Finish At Valdosta School

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

VALDOSTA, Ga., June 2.—The Rev. S. T. LaNier, minister of the Church of Christ, delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Valdosta High school at the First Methodist church yesterday evening.

The Rev. Hoke S. Dickinson, of the First Christian church, gave the invocation and the Rev. L. A. Harrell, pastor of the First Methodist church, pronounced the benediction. The Valdosta High school Glee Club also took part in the program.

The graduation exercises will be concluded Friday with the literary address delivered by Professor Mark Smith, of Macon, superintendent of Bibb county schools, and president of Kiwanis International. R. L. Stump, chairman of the Valdosta board of education, will deliver the diplomas to the 102 graduates.

American Tobacco Company, have completed a tour of the entire Georgia tobacco area and reported conditions unsatisfactory as a whole owing to the dry weather.

Rotary Hears Council Police War Gas Talk Group Upheld In Showdown

Chemical Officer Says U. S. Must Be Taught To Combat It.

Our Army is abreast of the developments of war gases and the personnel of the military services are being trained in chemical warfare, Colonel George Wanamaker, chemical officer of the Fourth Corps Area and former superintendent of Glynn county schools, said here yesterday before the Rotary Club. He declared it would be criminal negligence for the United States to fail to give this training to its men.

"The United States, at the present time, is not bound by any treaty or agreement that prevents our using chemicals in warfare," Colonel Wanamaker said, "and although I cannot explain technically what we are doing in this field, I can tell you that training gas masks have been distributed to all troops and they are being taught how to protect their bodies, their foods and their weapons against chemicals," he said.

Limits on Chemicals.

Describing the limits on chemicals useful in fighting, Colonel Wanamaker said that they must be available in large quantities; must be highly toxic, and must be projectable, from shells, sprays, or in hand grenades.

"There are only about a dozen chemicals which have been found usable," he explained, "and the purpose of these are: To irritate the lungs; to burn parts of the body; to burn the eyes; to cause coughing and vomiting, and incendiaries."

"The question so often asked—'Why aren't chemicals being used in the present war?'—is answered by one word. Incendiaries are chemicals."

Studied War Gas.

Colonel Wanamaker, who studied war gas and gave instruction in chemical warfare during the last war, is a graduate of the United States Chemical Warfare school.

Carefully avoiding any specific discussion of the Army's chemical warfare plans, he told of proposed civilian protection and described the experimental work in the civilian field.

To demonstrate his discussion Colonel Wanamaker exhibited three gas masks. The old British mask, used in the last war, was compared to the new United States service masks, described as the best in the world. The cheaper, training masks now used by the troops also were shown.

Council Police Group Upheld In Showdown

Way Paved for Move To Retire Older Patrolmen.

City council yesterday sustained its police committee's adverse report to a proposal which would have wrested all executive authority from the committee and placed Police Chief Hornsby in supreme command of the department under council supervision. The committee now has supervisory authority.

Despite a heated attack led by Councilman J. Allen Couch, supported by Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, by a vote of 12 to six council refused to override the committee.

Retirement Action.

The action paves the way for an impending effort to retire many of the 25 or 30 members of the department who have served 25 years and are eligible for pensions, a move which was believed initiated at the committee's last meeting when Hornsby was asked to prepare a list of pension eligibles.

Predicting that the "police department is in for a bigger 'political ride' than it has had in 25 years," Couch attacked the committee's report and moved that the measure be passed, notwithstanding the committee's action.

Couch and Mayor Pro Tem John A. White were authors of the proposal, which would have made the chief responsible solely to the mayor and council and not to the police committee.

Free Hand for Chief.

In addition to contending that the measure was a constructive one, Couch held it would prevent demoralization of the department. He urged council to take the handcuffs off the chief and give him a free hand, declaring that if "he does not demonstrate he can run the department to the satisfaction of the people of this city, I'll be one of the first to propose action against him."

Couch also told council the police department has been in politics for 25 years and mayors have ridden in and out of office because of the way it has been handled.

Spain Signs Accord To Assist Finland

MADRID, June 2.—(P)—The foreign affairs ministry today announced the signing of a commercial accord with Finland to "facilitate reconstruction" of Finland.

Details were not made public.

Farmers Getting Ready For 'Talmadge' Rain

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. VIDALIA, Ga., June 2.—Tension caused by the long drouth has been easing in this section and many farmers are making arrangements to hold out until tomorrow by conserving the dew by early plowing and upstirring the ground often to hold the moisture until the date on which "Ole Gene" is said to have promised a "trash floater."

There is some argument about whether the rain will be accompanied by thunder and lightning, but on all sides the land is being readied for the heavy rain predicted by Governor Talmadge, who always has redeemed his promises, his adherents say.

Best friends were amazed in woman's improved looks... new energy... pep!

A marvelous change can be brought about by overcoming miserable digestive complaints, underweight, sluggishness and loss of appetite—all by two important steps—

Restore vital digestive juices in the stomach... energize your body with rich, red blood. Here's how!

If you are one of those unfortunate who have been ill, or have suffered with colds, the flu, worked under a strain, failed to eat the proper foods, or have been vexed by overtaxing worries... yet have no organic trouble or focal infection... and your red-blood-cells have become reduced in vitality and number... if your stomach digestion refuses to work properly, then here is good news for you!

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build back deficient blood strength... to revive and stimulate those stomach juices which digest the food so your body can make proper use of it in rebuilding worn-out tissue. These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat... to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality... pep... become animated... more attractive!

Feel and look like yourself again

Yes, when you tone up the stomach and get its digestive juices flowing freely, you should enjoy again that old-time zest for food... stomach digestive miseries should vanish. S.S.S. Tonic also gives you the mineral matter in soluble and digestive form to restore your blood to its rich, red color... this makes for greater strength... color in your cheeks... resistance against disease attacks. Because S.S.S. is in liquid form it begins its work as soon as you take it. Make the S.S.S. treatment a part of your daily diet. You will be delighted with results. Scientific research shows that S.S.S. Tonic usually gets results. Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits it has brought to them—that's why so many say "S.S.S. Tonic builds sturdy health and makes you feel like yourself again." © S.S.S. Co.

WITH THE GOLFERS It's Chesterfield

Right from the tee-off, you'll like their COOLER, Milder, BETTER TASTE

Smokers get every good quality they like in Chesterfield's famous blend. This right combination of the best tobaccos that grow in our own Southland and that we bring from far-off Turkey and Greece truly SATISFIES.

Make your next pack Chesterfield...you can't team-up with a better cigarette. Everybody who smokes them likes them.
